ACTION TAKEN 'ON HIS OWN'; CITY JUBILANT

'Hour of Tolerance' Affects All.

New York, March 18 [Special].—New Yorkers prepared tonight for an extra hour of drinking and frivolity as the gift of Mayor La Guardia, who this afternoon tossed the midnight curfew overboard in apparent defiance of War Mobilizer Byrnes.

The mayor surprised all and delighted many of the listeners to his weekly broadcast over WNYC today by announcing flatly that "a rigid 12 o'clock curfew won't work in New York," and decreeing that beginning tonight the city's amusement places could remain open until 1 a. m.

He called the hour from midnight to 1 a. m. "an hour of tolerance," and said that "if the places are actually closed one hour after midnight, that will be a full, reasonable and bona fide compliance."

Silent on His Authority.

The mayor made no revelation concerning where, if anywhere, he obtained authority to put New Yorkers in a class by themselves regarding curfew observance. However, reaction in federal agencies here and in Washington left no doubt they were thrown into consternation by the mayor's order. Spokesman for the regional war man power commission and the local curfew control board said as far as they knew the mayor was acting strictly on his own.

In Washington, there was no indication what action by federal enforcement agencies might follow the New York move. Byrnes was not available for comment and his associates waited to confer with him before announcing their course.

A few minutes after the mayor finished his broadcast, police orders went out to permit the mayor's "hour of tolerance."

Created Traffic Jam.

The mayor was asked after the broadcast whether he would recommend repeal of an ordinance he helped put thru the council last week setting 12 o'clock as the closing hour for places selling liquor.

"We won't worry about that," he replied. "We just won't report any violations until 1 o'clock."

The mayor said that the midnight curfew had created a serious transportation jam and would defeat its own purpose unless adjusted to meet local conditions.

Asked if his order meant that persons could enter places after midnight to order food or drinks, or applied only to persons who had placed orders before midnight, the mayor said, "They can go in any time they want, so long as they're out by 1 o'clock."

STILL MIDNIGHT HERE

Mayor Kelly yesterday refused comment on Mayor La Guardia's extension of New York's curfew, but said the midnight curfew will remain as is in Chicago.

"I'm going right along with the order of the government," Mayor Kelly said, "and I don't care what they do in New York."

When it was pointed out that La Guardia acted because a "serious transportation jam had resulted from the midnight closing," the mayor replied, "I haven't heard about any tie-ups in the loop."

Despite the mayor's statement, veteran traffic officers said traffic in the loop has been extremely heavy between 12 and 1 o'clock. "St. Patrick's night [Saturday] was a doodler," one officer commented. The elevated and surface lines are running extra cars and trips to carry the post-curfew crowds on Saturday nights.

William H. Spencer, regional director for the war man power commission, the curfew enforcing agency, said, "I don't know why La Guardia should feel that he has a different situation than anywhere else. I know the situation there, and I don't know by what authority La Guardia took such action. I don't see any reason why such action should be extended to Chicago."

Seize Medley in Deaths of 3 Red Heads

St. Louis, Mo., March 18 [Special].—Accompanied by a red haired woman he met here last week, Joseph Medley, sought in connection with the mysterious deaths of three other red haired women in the last three months, was captured here today in a downtown hotel.

Joseph Medley.

Medley, 43 and a former Chicagoan, has been the object of a nationwide search since he escaped from the Michigan state prison at Jackson last Nov. 27 to embark on a far-flung saga of crime and romance.

He is wanted in Washington, D. C., on charges of murdering Mrs. Nancy Boyer, 45, in her apartment March 6, and is also wanted by Chicago police for questioning concerning the bathtub death of Mrs. Blanche Zimmerman, 38, on Feb. 17, and by New Orleans police in connection with the death in a hotel bathtub there Dec. 24 of Laura Fischer, 28.

Captured in Hotel.

Agents of the federal bureau of investigation, accompanied by two St. Louis detectives, closed in on Medley in a corridor of the hotel near the entrance to a suite in which he had been living and which he and his woman companion were about to enter, Gerald B. Norris, head of the St. Louis office of the FBI, announced.

Norris said a loaded revolver was found in Medley's possession and that he admitted his identity.

The FBI said Medley's companion was a red haired, attractive St. Louis woman. Agents refused to disclose her name but said Medley had "met and befriended her" on March 12. In Medley's suite, agents said, they found a silver fox jacket and a woman's handbag, both corresponding to descriptions of articles missing from Mrs. Boyer's Washington apartment.

Faces Trial in Washington.

Norris said steps were being taken to return Medley to Washington, D. C., for trial on the murder charge. Chicago and New Orleans police are expected here tomorrow to question him concerning deaths of his red haired companions in their cities.

Mrs. Boyer's death followed her meeting with Medley by about a week. Her body was found in the kitchen of her apartment. She had been shot twice, police said.

Two days after the slaying of Mrs. Boyer, her emerald ring was pawned for $250 in Pittsburgh.

The New Orleans case was the first in which a red haired companion of Medley met death. Miss Fischer, a New York textile worker, was registered at a New Orleans hotel with Medley. After Medley had left hotel attendants found her nude body in a bathtub. The cause of death has never been determined.

Mrs. Zimmerman, a Chicago telephone operator, was found dead in a bathtub in the Atlantic hotel, Chicago, under circumstances almost identical to those in New Orleans. Medley had left the hotel about an hour before the discovery, placing a "Do Not Disturb" sign on the door. A coroner's jury last week reported the death was accidental and due to "benzedrine intoxication with the presence of alcoholic stimulants."

When Medley fled the Michigan state prison he was serving a 30 to 60 year sentence for kidnaping and robbery, and had a record of two previous felony convictions. He made his escape by absconding with $700 of prisoners' war bond money, eluding a guard who had accompanied him to a bank to deposit the funds.

Sightseeing Boat Sinks at Miami; 160 Rescued

Miami, Fla., March 18 (AP).—A Sunday afternoon crowd of 160 escaped with a few scratches today when the sightseeing cruiser Biscayne listed and partly sank at a dock in the Miami river. Screams went up from the panicky passengers when the Biscayne started to roll over. Women and children were boosted over the side to a concrete wall by crew members and service men. It is believed the vessel struck a submerged log and opened a seam.

BUCHAREST WAR DIET: BIG STEAKS

Gay Capital Is Rolling in Luxury at Low Cost.

BY EDDY GILMORE.

BUCHAREST, March 18 (AP).—On the surface this Romanian capital is a gay, glittering city, little scarred by the war, and full of luxuries at reasonable prices.

But behind this facade one senses there is a more practical segment of Bucharest's population which wishes to set Romania's house in order, to take the war seriously, and seek a better future.

[Gilmore is one of a party of allied correspondents visiting Bucharest by arrangement of the soviet government.]

Thick Steaks for 50 Cents.

But this is Bucharest on the surface:

There are thick, juicy beefsteaks for 50 cents; three eggs and bad coffee for breakfast for 25 cents; unrationed shoes from $10 to $20; French perfume for $1; typewriters for $35; cigaret lighters for $1.25; silk stockings by the crate for $1 to $3 a pair; electric toasters for $4; French wines, champagne, cognac, and liqueurs for $2 to $6 a bottle; well stocked grocery stores, fresh fruit, jazz music, night clubs, and taxicabs.

Bucharest has automobiles for $400, and chauffeurs to drive them for $75 a month; gasoline for 15 cents a gallon, and everything milady desires from jeweled garters to fur coats.

Shelves in some of Bucharest's stores are getting a little bare. But so much money is being made that nobody appears particularly worried about the future.

Good Reason for Concern.

To the traveler here only briefly there appears ample evidence that the allies have good reason for concern whether there are Fascists and pro-Germans about.

Some persons just shrug their shoulders and say, "It's the war," when you mention such things as 900 Americans buried in Romania as the price of raiding the Ploesti oil fields or that there is still loot from Russia in Bucharest stores.

Since the armistice 13 to 16 Romanian divisions have gone to the front, and by Russian account they are fighting well. But all Romanians to whom I talked, exclusive of government officials, seemed not the slightest bit interested in the war.

Shortage in Meat Supplies Laid to New Deal Ignorance

Blame for the present meat shortage was laid squarely on the government's doorstep yesterday by the organization which knows more about meat than any one else in the country—the American Meat institute.

The reason you can't buy beefsteak, the institute said, is because the government for years has consistently ignored warnings by the meat industry, which saw the present shortage as inevitable unless proper steps were taken.

See Worse Shortages.

Despite these warnings, the government has kept in effect regulations which discouraged cattle feeders from fattening range stock; has preserved price ceilings which failed to reflect prices paid for livestock, and thus has created, inevitably, what the institute describes as "an uncontroled, extensive, and growing black market in all kinds of meat."

After making a survey of 713 meat packing companies and branch houses from coast to coast, the institute found that many meat items now are 100 per cent short in supply, and most beef and pork cuts are 97 per cent short. And it found that the shortage will get worse before it gets better.

The institute's report on its findings follows:

"For the first time since meat rationing began, many meat items now are reported for the country as a whole as being 100 per cent short in supply in relation to the needs of the trade; most beef and pork cuts are reported as being over 97 per cent short in supply.

"The only exceptions to the extreme shortage are some sausage and variety meats but even these are shorter than a month ago. The survey is based on figures supplied by 713 meat packing companies and branch houses, from coast to coast.

Reasons Are Listed.

"It is true, too, that the supply of meat for vital war purposes—for our army and navy—and for domestic consumers undoubtedly will continue to get much worse before it gets any better. Reasons for this are:

"1. The uncontroled, extensive, and growing black market in all kinds of meat.

"2. Diversion of large quantities of meat from normal, legitimate channels of trade—from which supplies for war purposes must be obtained.

"3. Regulations which have the effect of discouraging cattle feeders from taking more young range animals and bringing them to the maturity and weight of finished beef.

"4. Government price controls which have resulted in wholesale ceiling prices for meat—especially beef and pork—not being sufficient, in the case of legitimate operators, to reflect the prices paid currently for live stock.

Heavy Losses Cited.

"As a result of this, many meat packing companies have been forced to operate for an extended period with heavy losses. Unless remedial steps immediately are taken to correct gross inequities in the price situation, meat supplies in many parts of the country, as well as for vital war uses, and the ability of the industry to handle any later increase in live stock supplies will be further affected.

"Obviously, no company can continue to operate for long under the strangling losses which now are being imposed on the industry. This situation repeatedly has been brought to the attention of government agencies concerned, but necessary corrective steps have not been taken."

Tire Eating Porcupines Needled by a Motorist

Albany, N. Y., March 18 (AP).—Arch Blue, state conservation department fire observer, has figured out a way to keep porcupines from eating the synthetic rubber tires on his automobile. Blue, who once had his tires eaten, built a miniature electric fence, operated by a storage battery. He merely strings it around his car when he leaves it in porcupine infested areas.

Ask for a Bankbook, You Get a Blank Look

Philadelphia, Pa., March 18 (AP).—The machine age has claimed another victim—the bankbook. Land Title Bank and Trust Co., to conserve time and man power, will abolish passbooks Tuesday. A new tellers' machine makes an entry for the bank and simultaneously gives the customer a deposit receipt in 20 per cent less time than before.

NAGOYA RAIDED SECOND TIME IN WEEK BY B-29s

Carrier Planes Hit Kyushu Island.

21ST U. S. BOMBER COMMAND HDQ., March 19 [Monday]—(AP).—Another armada of Super Forts—possibly totaling 350—hit Nagoya, Japan's third city and largest aircraft production center, in a predawn low level attack today, showering down 2,500 tons of incendiaries to "finish up" the March 12 fire raid.

The Marianas based B-29s in the previous raid delivered 2,000 tons of incendiaries on the factory metropolis on Honshu Island. A two-square mile area was devastated and seven war plants were damaged.

Kobe Still Smoke Covered.

Today's attack on the densely populated city of 1,500,000 was the fifth massed strike by 21st bomber command Super Forts on Japan's principal cities in nine days. Tokyo, Nagoya, and Kobe were set in flames.

A smoke pall still capped Kobe, Japan's principal shipbuilding city and port, several hours after more than 300 Super Fortress bombers hit it with 2,500 tons of incendiary bombs.

Carrier Raid Confirmed.

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Guam, March 19 [Monday]—(AP).—Hundreds of American carrier planes [the Japanese counted 1,400] from the world's mightiest task force swept the enemy's southernmost main island of Kyushu yesterday in the third carrier attack on the Japanese homeland in little more than a month.

Adm. Nimitz said a "strong force" of carrier planes attacked air bases and other installations on Kyushu, but Tokyo radio claimed that Shikoku Island and southern Honshu also were raided in an attack lasting eight hours.

Kyushu is known to provide much of Japan's war machinery. It is the site of the great Yawata steel works, one of the largest in the world, and many other important industrial plants. Kyushu also is thickly studded with air fields.

Nimitz' reference to a strong force would indicate the attack was carried out by at least as powerful an air fleet as the 1,200 planes which swept the Tokyo-Yokohama area Feb. 16-17 and again Feb. 25-26.

Concentrate on Air Fields.

The enemy broadcast said the carrier pilots concentrated on air fields, with Kumamoto and other cities on Kyushu taking the heaviest pounding. Japan claimed its aircraft were attacking the raiders and said three United States warships had been sunk, including two carriers.

The Japanese said the raids went into a second day. They reported the carrier force resumed its attacks on the same targets at 6 a. m. Monday morning and at 9 a. m. "our interceptor forces are engaged in fierce battles with the enemy attacking planes."

Adm. Nimitz announced the assault on the enemy homeland in this brief paragraph:

"On March 18 a strong force of carrier aircraft of the Pacific fleet attacked enemy aircraft bases and installations on the Island of Kyushu."

Nimitz said that on Iwo Island marine uniforms again had been found on Japanese soldiers. One enemy soldier, he reported, "stopped one of our ambulances, shot and wounded the driver and escaped."

Remagen Span Falls; Bridge to Be Repaired

WITH THE AMERICANS ACROSS THE RHINE, March 18 (AP).—The central span of the 1,200 foot Ludendorff bridge at Remagen collapsed Saturday, carrying many army engineers to death in the Rhine, but it was announced officially tonight that the gap can be repaired and the bridge soon will be in operation again.

The collapse, blamed on a weakened main supporting girder that had been damaged by a German demolition charge before the Americans seized the bridge March 7, proved to be less of a catastrophe than had first been indicated.

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Many of the 200 engineers who were working on the bridge and were plunged into the river when the span gave way were rescued, it was announced. There was no official tally of the dead and injured.

Strain Proves Too Great.

The German explosives damaged a lower arch girder 10 days ago when the span was seized, and failure to repair or replace it proved to be the real reason for loss of the bridge. Stresses and strains on remaining girders became too much.

An investigation was under way tonight, and until a full report is made there is some reluctance to place any responsibility. Unofficial reasons for the fall are that it gave way as the result of "natural causes thru enemy action."

Ironically, the great span which gave Americans a solid bridgehead across the Rhine collapsed a few hours before a German high command announcement that four officers had been executed for cowardice and negligence in permitting seizure of the bridge intact March 7.

Cumulative Stress Blamed.

There was no explosion or shell burst when the bridge tumbled down at 3:10 p. m. Lt. Gen. Bradley's headquarters said the main central span, 512 feet long, toppled into the water as a result of cumulative strains and stresses which American army engineers had been trying to offset with repairs.

The span had been closed for repairs except for brief intervals, and no traffic was passing over at the time of its collapse.

Heroic work by soldiers saved the lives of dozens of engineers who, after days of toil in a hail of shellfire, had the historic road and railway span ready for traffic.

Pontoon Bridges Working.

Loss of the bridge did not immediately imperil the Americans' steadily expanding bridgehead, since pontoon bridges are in operation.

The whole steel framework of the bridge collapsed, leaving three stone piers and the approaches intact. A section leading from the center to the east bank went under water, and the section leading to the west side fell partly on the bank and in shallow water.

PATTON, PATCH RACE AHEAD IN PINCERS DRIVE

German Industrial Basin Periled.

PARIS, March 18 [Monday]—(AP).—Three American armies advanced in all sectors of the flaming western front today as the 3d army's tanks and troops overran one-third of Germany's doomed Saarland and swept unchecked across the Nahe river, 21 miles southwest of Mainz, vital exit for 80,000 enemy troops now in frenzied retreat to the Rhine.

The United States 1st army, robbed of one important life line east of the Rhine by collapse of the central span of the Ludendorff bridge, nevertheless scored gains measuring up to two miles to the north along the Rhine's east bank close to the edge of inner Germany's plains. It was announced officially, however, that the bridge could be repaired quickly.

The day's greatest strides were made by the 11th armored division in spearheading the 3d army's offensive. This unit raced 13 miles to the Nahe river in the vicinity of Kirn, captured a number of towns and took 600 prisoners. Another column of the 11th advanced eight miles to Wickenroth, five miles northwest of Kirn. Reconnaissance units found the Nahe bridge at Kirn blown.

New Armored Division Fights.

A new armored division, as yet unidentified, joined the powerful array of armor in Patton's army and gained up to 2½ miles, reaching the vicinity of Nohen, three miles east of Birkenfeld. The 10th armored division, also with the 3d, slammed eight miles southeastward to points 27 miles southeast of Saarburg.

The United States 7th army was smashing thru the Saarland's Siegfried line on a 50 mile front as the German 1st army fled before the mounting peril from the 3d army in its rear.

On the 30-mile eastern segment of that front, American troops with their French allies along the Rhine were rapidly chasing the Germans from their last foothold on French soil.

Planes Strafe Fleeing Foe.

American fighter-bombers spread ruin along highways clogged with German troops fleeing the closing jaws of the 3d and 7th armies, now possibly 25 to 35 miles from snapping shut in the heart of the Saar.

It appeared that the western Saar was well emptied of German troops, and that industrial basin was falling swiftly to American arms.

The Nahe river, last important barrier in the path of the 4th armored division's rush, was crossed at Bad Kreuznach, a health resort famed as German army headquarters in the first World war.

While tanks were overrunning most of this city of 28,000 population on the Nahe's east bank the 90th infantry, a few miles north, pushed eastward six miles and entered the west bank town of Bingen, 17 miles west of Mainz.

3d Army Takes Mersig.

Lt. Gen. Patton's armor and tanks now were on the Nahe river at points along its entire length, and held 25 miles of the Rhine's west bank for 25 miles southeastward from conquered Coblenz.

The 3d army captured the western anchor of Merzig and came crashing thru the basin's northern border in a push promising a speedy junction with the 7th in the heart of the Saar.

[A BBC broadcast said the armies were but 15 miles apart after the 3d had cracked into St. Wendel, 18 miles northeast of Saarlautern.]

The 7th army battered half way thru the southern Saar's Siegfried line east of the province's capital of Saarbruecken while the 3d army crashed thru the roof in a seven mile surge 35 miles to the north.

Pour Across Saar River.

Third army troops were pouring into the western Saar across the Saar river, and the quick fall of fortified Merzig, a city of 10,000 population, testified to the want of resistance.

The Saar river was crossed by the 65th division—disclosed for the first time to be part of the 3d army—between Merzig and Saarlautern, where the 3d has held a bridgehead since last autumn.

Lt. Gen. Patton's first invasion of the Saar last fall ground to a stop in front of Merzig, which was a keystone in the Siegfried 'ine.

It was 28 miles northeast of here that the 10th armored division was driving 35 miles from a junction with the 7th in the very center of the Saar.

4th Armored Crosses.

Thirty-five miles farther east, the Germans said, the 4th armored division had crossed the Nahe river, last natural barrier before Mainz, at Bad Muenster.

To the west, the 11th armored division last was reported in the vicinity of the road hub of Kirchberg, six miles southwest of Simmern, thru which the 4th armored division sped in its breakthru from the Moselle river bridgehead.

Patton was disclosed to have hurled an additional armored division into the battle, giving him a total of four in action, and was employing the blazing tactics which overran France.

Lt. Gen. Patch's forces drove five to seven and a half miles thru rows of dragon teeth and pillboxes in a push that was heading north past Saarbruecken.

The 63d infantry division plowed deep into the fortifications at Heckenthalheim, six miles east of Saarbruecken.

Three miles to the northeast, infantry was seven and a half miles into the defenses after reaching the vicinity of Niederwuerzbach.

This push, in concert with one farther east, was outflanking the Siegfried fortress of Zweibruecken, 15 miles east of Saarbruecken.

100th Division in Germany.

Third division infantry were two miles south of Zweibruecken while the 100th infantry division, moving up on the east flank, was three miles away. The 100th also made a three mile gain to the east and entered Germany seven miles northeast of Bitche.

American and French troops east of here were driving the Germans from the last soil of northeastern France.

The 42d division advancing thru the mine fields in the Hardt mountains cleared Phillipsbourg, 20 miles southeast of Zweibruecken, and drove beyond the main lateral highway leading 15 miles southeastward to Haguenau.

Eastward near the Rhine the 36th division cleared three villages five to six miles north and northwest of Haguenau.

Broaden East Bank Grip.

Without regard for the loss of the Ludendorff bridge at Remagen, the 1st army drove nearly two miles northward, broadening its east bank grip to 15½ miles. The 1st army captured an air field almost six miles east of the Rhine, and widened to six miles its hold on the superhighway to the Ruhr.

The captured air field was south of Windhagen, seven miles northeast of the Remagen crossing. Forces which seized it in a gain of more than a mile also were within a mile and a half of another field farther north.

On the extreme northern tip of the bridgehead, the 78th division drove almost two miles north from Koenigswinter into Dollendorf, on the Rhine opposite captured Bad Godesberg.

The 9th infantry crossed the Wied river near Hoppen, eight miles east of the Ludendorff bridge.

2 NAZI VESSELS SUNK BY BRITISH OFF CORSICA TIP

ROME, March 18 (AP).—Two large German ships out of a three vessel convoy were sunk last night by British destroyers off the tip of Corsica, allied headquarters reported today in an announcement which said there was "no change" on the long northern Italian battle line. The enemy vessels, which were described as destroyers or large torpedo boats, were spotted by the British destroyers Lookout and Meteor north of Cape Corse. Two of the German vessels were sunk. The third escaped but was being hunted.

The only land activity reported was the wiping out of a German strongpoint five miles south of Imola by an Italian patrol. Twenty German parachutists were killed and 10 captured.

U. S. AND RUSSIAN PLANES BATTLE NAZIS TOGETHER

LONDON, March 18 (AP).—United States 8th air force Mustangs and Russian Yak fighters flew side by side in battle today, defending a Russian air field east of the Oder river from attack by four German fighters.

In a dogfight over the field, Capt. Ralph Cox, Robstown, Tex., 25 year old squadron commander of the 359th fighter group, shot down a Focke-Wulf, and said the Russian planes drove the other three enemy aircraft away.

side of the bridge, and looked east when it started to sway.

"She started to give it this," he said, waving his hand slowly from side to side. "Then it fell over to the south. There wasn't a lot of noise, just a deep rumble or like somebody sawing wood. Men fell over into the water like dominoes. I ran to the west side and barely cleared to the pier."

Moments later downstream dozens of men bobbed to the surface. Many, injured, swam weakly toward twisted timbers swirling in the current. They were swept toward a pontoon bridge which engineers had thrown across the Rhine some distance north of the original crossing site 10 days before.

Some of the men were horribly mangled and pinned between steel girders. Others were buried in debris under the water.

Two signalmen, Pvt. George Arnold of Oil City, Pa., and Pvt. Joe Battista of Pence, Wis., were laying wire across the bridge, but had gone to a jeep off the span and escaped injury.

Typical of the coolness with which Americans met the emergency, they tapped the line and summoned ambulances and medics to the scene. In a matter of seconds, lines of Red Cross vehicles were streaking up to the bridge on both sides of the river. An aid station was set up in a windowless, shell torn building.

Chaplain on Scene.

Scores of troops raced onto a pontoon bridge to pull men from the water. Some were taken from the cold river before they were swept into the cables and pontoons.

An outstanding hero was Sgt. George Aneson of Brooklyn, N. Y. He helped a lieutenant colonel and a captain pull a corporal from the water at a pontoon, but left when he saw two men struggling to keep hold of wreckage about midway between the pontoon and the wrecked bridge.

Without stopping to throw off his heavy combat boots, Aneson yanked off his trousers and swam into the water with a heavy rope. He swam 100 yards, fixed the rope to the piece of wreckage, and the three men were hauled to safety.

Engineers on the pontoon bridge also were busy shunting splintered pieces of timber away from the vulnerable pontoons.

In the middle of rescue operations, a German shell landed nearby, and fragments cut down several men.

Narrow escapes were legion.

Sgt. Merle Williams, Cowansville, Pa., and Pvt. Richard Myren, Madison, Wis., climbed down the piling and beams and lifted a man, unconscious but still alive, from where he was pinned in the water.

Pvt. William Johnson, Santa Rosa, Cal., was in the middle of the span, and rode it down. He suffered no more than a scratched leg.

These Once Saved Bridge.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY EAST OF THE RHINE, March 16 [Delayed]—(AP).—Three engineers who originally saved the Remagen bridge were found today deep in an air raid shelter under a building in the shadow of the vital span. Shells were dropping outside.

"We are just sweating out our next job," said Lt. Hugh Mott, Nashville, Tenn. Mott and his two sergeants, Eugene Doran, Manhattan, Kas., and John Reynolds, Lincolnton, N. C., are the three soldiers who pushed hundreds of pounds of TNT into the Rhine March 7 after they hauled it out of the stone pier at each end of the Remagen bridge.

Doran was a truck driver for Bodner & Son in Chicago, Ill.

These are the three who secured the bridge but the rest of Mott's platoon worked thru shellfire and snipers all night long and into the next day before they were relieved. They included, from the Chicagoland area:

IKE WARNS NAZI RAIL MEN TO GET OUT OF DANGER

LONDON, March 18 (AP).—Gen. Eisenhower tonight warned German railway workers in the area of Frankfurt-on-Main and Mannheim-Ludwigshafen to "get out of the battle zone" because "to remain at your posts is suicide."

The supreme commander, who yesterday served notice to all civilians of coming bombardments of Rhineland cities, directed his new broadcast to workers who are taking almost daily poundings from allied war planes.

The Nazis are "using the railways to supply armies to prolong a lost war and to evacuate high officials and their property," he said. "For you railway men above all to remain at your posts is suicide. Your work brings you into constant danger. Your homes for the most part are in specially dangerous areas. Railway men, get out of the battle zone!"

2,000 PLANES POUND HEART OF RAVAGED BERLIN

LONDON, March 19 [Monday].—(AP).—Striking in record strength thru jet propelled enemy fighters, more than 1,300 United States heavy bombers and 750 fighters pounded Berlin for an hour yesterday. They dumped nearly 50 tons of high explosives and fire bombs a minute on railroad yards near the heart of the reich capital, and armament plants in the industrial suburbs.

In a desperate attempt to ward off the devastating attack by the largest bomber force ever launched against the capital, the Germans filled the skies over the battered city with flak and sent jet planes swirling in on the bomber formations.

A United States strategic air force war bulletin said 13 Nazi interceptors, including several jet planes, were shot down over the capital.

Mosquitos Follow Attack.

R. A. F. Mosquitos rained two-ton blockbusters on Berlin last night, striking by the glow of raging fires started by the American air armada. It was the 27th consecutive night that Berlin had been attacked by the "fire stoking" Mosquitos. The American raid was the 34th in as many days against the reich.

The American daylight force yesterday followed R. A. F. Mosquitos which hurled two ton blockbusters into the fiery center of the gutted metropolis Saturday night for the 26th consecutive night. The Mosquitos also attacked Nuernberg.

The noon hour assault yesterday by Flying Fortresses and Liberators surpassed in strength the 1,200 bomber attack of Feb. 26. The heaviest R. A. F. night assault on the capital was made about a year ago by 900 big bombers.

The Schlesischer railway center and North station freight yards, both within two miles of the capital's center, were the targets of about 1,000 heavy bombers of today's fleet.

Planes Stretch 300 Miles.

The German air raid warning system said the American sky train stretched 300 miles over the reich.

Before the American Berlin bombers had returned to their bases in Britain an R. A. F. armada of some 400 big Lancasters, with escorting Mustangs, attacked two Ruhr benzol plants—one 10 miles east of Bochum and the other north of Hattingen.

"That Berlin flak caused a lot of damage," said Lt. Lewis Orsi, 3215 Normal av., Chicago. "One piece of the stuff came up under my seat but my flak suit stopped it."

Lt. Archie Cargan, Pontiac, Ill., shot down two German Focke-Wulf planes, but said he thought Luftwaffe pilots were becoming more aggressive.

Doughboy 'Dentists' Pull Two Rows of Nazi 'Dragon's Teeth'

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 3D DIVISION BELOW ZWEIBRUECKEN, Germany, March 18.—The 7th and 15th regiments of this crack division today ripped a hole 1,600 yards wide in the first two rows of the Siegfried line "dragon's teeth" and were fighting within sight of Zweibruecken.

German shells were dropping in Zweibruecken, and the enemy attempted counter-attacks with machine guns and self-propelled guns from the flanks of our hard won Siegfried corridor, but the Americans moved on to tackle the third line of dragon's teeth.

The latter are concrete tetrahedrons about four feet high and six feet apart, and were built by the Germans to impede the progress of tanks. Completing them [there are hundreds of dragon's teeth stretching east and west in this section of the Siegfried line] are rows of pillboxes and systems of deep anti-tank ditches.

Huge Barrage Aids Attack.

The infantry attack on the Siegfried line was preceded by a three and a half hour artillery preparation, in which hundreds of guns were employed. The first three hours—from 3:15 to 6:15 a. m.—were devoted to spaced harassing fire, but in the half hour after that the cannoneers threw everything as fast as they could, recording more than 15,000 rounds in that 30 minutes.

At 6:45 a. m. Maj. Gen. John W. O'Daniel, the scrappy, grizzled warrior who has led the 3d since the Anzio beachhead, ordered his 7th and 15th regiments to attack.

As the regiments advanced, they found some of the dragon teeth already had been pulled or broken by the shelling and the air bombardment of the last few days. But there were plenty of the pyramidal concrete molars remaining, and the combat engineers went to work while smoke was generated over the area by regimental crews. This afforded some concealment for the riflemen and engineers.

Blow 'Teeth' Apart.

The engineers attached charges to the dragon teeth and blew most of them apart. The more stubborn of the barriers were demolished by point blank fire from tanks and tank destroyers. The riflemen, meanwhile, assaulted the pillboxes. Not all were manned, but those which were offered stiff resistance.

By noon, the 1,600 yard breach had been made in the two initial alignments of dragon's teeth, and the pillboxes in the immediate vicinity had been silenced. Commanding one of the 7th regiment's heavy weapons companies in the battle of the pillboxes was Capt. Withold Dylewski, 2710 N. Menard av., Chicago.

The Americans forged thru the gap they had created, a gap strewn with corpses, some of them our own infantrymen, but most of them German.

Enemy Tosses Shells.

Enemy shells began booming into the gap, and German pockets of resistance on the flanks threw in more fire. The 7th and 15th regiments sent out elements to clean up the pockets, and their other foot troops kept on going thru "artillery alley" toward the third line of dragon's teeth.

RUSSIANS TAKE KOLBERG, NAVAL PORT ON BALTIC

13 Day Siege of Burned City Ended.

LONDON, March 19 [Monday]—(AP).—Red army troops captured the ruins of the German Baltic naval port of Kolberg yesterday, ending a 13 day siege of the city, as other Russian forces narrowed the Germans' East Prussian pocket southwest of Koenigsberg to a mere 126 square miles in gains of up to four miles.

Far to the south in Czechoslovakia's Tatra mountains, soviet troops won control of a 70 mile stretch of the east bank of the strategic Hron river west of Bratislavia and Vienna. Berlin reported violent battles flaring along the entire 375 mile length of the southern half of the eastern front.

East of captured Kolberg, soviet men were grinding into the perimeter defenses of the twin pre-war rival ports of Danzig and Gdynia, Berlin said. The Moscow radio said Danzig was in flames.

Evacuate Coast Towns.

The Russian radio said the Nazis were trying to evacuate by sea residents of Danzig bay coastal towns threatened by the Red army, altho German naval communications were described as "in a precarious position." Thousands of residents were reported fleeing Danzig toward Gdynia, only to jam with "tens of thousands" of refugees from Pomeranian cities, camping in the open awaiting sea transport.

Collapse of enemy resistance in Kolberg, ancient Pomeranian seaport with a pre-war population of 33,170, was announced by Premier Stalin in an order of the day. The fortified citadel, surrounded by the Red army on land, was taken by Marshal Zhukov's 1st White Russian army, including Polish units.

The port, lying 63 miles northeast of imperiled Stettin, has been under assault since March 6, when it was cut off from the west by a swift soviet thrust to the coast.

Nazis Evacuate Garrison.

The Germans, conceding loss of the city, claimed that the Nazi garrison had been evacuated by sea. Moscow's war bulletin said Zhukov's artillery had shelled the port from the west, sinking several German ships. Thousands of enemy dead lay in the streets after resistance ceased, the bulletin said.

Converging on the last enemy strongholds of Heiligenbeil and Braunsberg, the Russians hammered within four and a half miles southeast of Heiligenbeil by winning the highway junction of Rehfeld. The 3d White Russians cleared a five-mile strip of the Prussian coast on the west bank of the Frisching river opposite captured Brandenburg, taking Patersorth in a four-mile advance.

In Czechoslovakia, Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's 2d Ukranian army cleared the entire 70-mile east bank of the Hron river between the Czechoslovak town of Zvolen and its confluence with the Danube at Esztergom, 19 miles northwest of Budapest.

FINN ELECTION COUNT SLOWED BY HEAVY VOTE

HELSINKI, Finland, March 18. (AP). — Finland's first parliamentary election since 1939 ended tonight amid indications that a clear-cut picture of the political complexion of the new national assembly might not be known for several days.

Voting, generally far heavier than in the election six years ago, ended at 8 p. m. and election boards throughout the country began counting ballots, but various factors indicated the process would be slow.

One circumstance — displacement of hundreds of thousands of persons as the result of German devastation of Lapland and the ceding of eastern border areas to Russia under the armistice — made the counting by unfamiliar election boards the more difficult.

REP. O'KONSKI SAYS YALTA WAS STALIN'S SHOW

New York, March 18 [Special].—Six thousand Polish-Americans jammed the Manhattan center today and assailed Dictator Stalin's role in the Yalta decisions relating to small nations. The meeting was sponsored by the Polish-American congress and other interested organizations.

Rep. O'Konski [Rep., Wis.] said that Poland, "The country that fought Hitler the longest, the hardest, that paid the highest price, will not be represented at the San Francisco conference" next month. He blamed Russia for it.

Forty-three of the 44 nations to be represented at the conference recognize the Polish government in London "as the real government of Poland," he said. But the 44th nation—Russia—does not, he added.

"Because that one country doesn't want Poland represented," he charged, "Poland won't be there."

Poland an Example.

"Yalta was a one man show!" O'Konski said in apparent reference to Stalin, "and next month the San Francisco conference looks like it might be a one man show, too!

"Poland is the key to what is going to happen to Finland, Estonia, Latvia, the Balkan states, and for that matter, the whole of Europe. They will have jammed down their throats governments they don't want."

The congressman charged that priests were being shot daily in Russian occupied Poland and that the Russians had established 50 new concentration camps there.

Switching from Poland to the United States, he warned that "in order to attain future representation, we will have to overcome the daily propaganda spread by the Communists, much of it thru government agencies."

He later told reporters the OWI is communist controled. He added that Assistant Secretary of State Archibald MacLeish is "very left."

The throng, in a resolution, voiced sharp disapproval of the Big Three decisions affecting Poland. The resolution said Yalta gave "the green light to the forces of oppression, as exemplified in the puppet regime, created first in Lublin and then moved to the ruins of heroic Warsaw."

PARENTS LEARN OF SON'S RESCUE IN TRIBUNE STORY

A story in THE TRIBUNE brought the first news yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence P. McMahon, 6434 S. Whipple st., of the rescue of their son, the Rev. Lawrence D. McMahon, 31, a missionary in Burma. He was rescued with 24 companions at a leper asylum in Mandalay where he had remained to help attend 300 patients.

Father McMahon.

It was the first direct news the McMahons have had of their son in nearly three years. The last letter he wrote in February, 1942, was received in May of that year.

"But we had never given up hope that he was safe," said Mr. McMahon.

Father McMahon, a graduate of St. Columban's college in St. Columbans, Neb., was affiliated with St. Columbans' foreign missionary society. He went to Bhamo, Burma, the missionary's headquarters, in 1939, and later was pastor of a church at Myitkyina where, presumably, he was stationed when the Japs came.

WGNB Goes on Air Daily with Music, Drama, News

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

WGNB, sister station of W-G-N, yesterday passed an important milestone. WGNB, frequency modulation [FM] station, which leaned heavily on W-G-N during its first three years of operation, became a complete radio station with its own studios and staff, a daily and balanced schedule of music, news, drama, entertainment and discussion yesterday—under the direction of Marion Claire, the singing star of the Chicago Theater of the Air operettas.

Speaking on a special broadcast of the Theater of the Air at 5 p. m. yesterday, Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and president of W-G-N and WGNB, promised further experiments in programming with this high fidelity, static-free technique of broadcasting.

Highly Competent Staff.

"Frequency modulation has been delayed by the war thru the inability of manufacturers to produce receiving sets," Col. McCormick said. "We determined to use this period to experiment and to work out the very best form of program. We are not starting from zero as we did with the old station [W-G-N]. We have a thoroly competent musical and dramatic staff as well as our own musical arrangers, producers and script writers to call upon. At the head of the organization has been placed a most versatile member of our cast, a star of the stage, screen and radio — Miss Marion Claire."

Col. McCormick recalled the beginnings of W-G-N 21 years ago.

"THE TRIBUNE looked upon its first radio station operation as an additional service to its readers," Col. McCormick said. "To that station came 'Amos and Andy,' then called 'Sam and Henry.' It instituted a new broadcast service for the blind; it installed receivers on the police cars and communicated with them until the city obtained its own sending set.

Journalistic Approach.

"Its approach was primarily journalistic. It reported the famous Scopes heresy trial, a legal and theological battle between Clarence Darrow and William Jennings Bryan. It was one of the first stations to enter the national political conventions and give ringside seats to all listeners. It reported baseball and football games. Gradually it developed its own entertainment. The mystery play, 'The Five Fatal Words' was a milestone in its dramatic development."

Col. McCormick touched on other high spots in W-G-N's public service and entertainment record which have culminated in the broadcast of the Theater of the Air shows from Medinah temple Saturday nights before 4,500 guests.

Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N and WGNB, said the new programs would be predominantly musical because of the ability of F-M to reproduce sound with such fidelity. He added that many fine recordings of serious music would be presented, as well as rebroadcasts of proven programs such as the Theater of the Air, the Northwestern Reviewing Stand and the Human Adventure.

Presents 'Tales of Music.'

"We shall attempt to recreate the setting and atmosphere, the drama and the color of grand opera by means of live voices and recorded melody," he said.

Among several musical features introduced yesterday was "1001 Tales in Music," with Miss Claudia Cassidy, music critic of THE TRIBUNE, commenting on beguiling music and recalling anecdotes about the masters of music. Yesterday's Theater of the Air featured a rebroadcast of "Eileen," which had been given Saturday evening.

WGNB henceforth will operate on a schedule from 5 to 11 p. m. week days and 2 to 10 p. m. Sundays.

REVIEW PEACE PARLEY EDICTS, SENATOR URGES

Vandenberg Challenges Dumbarton Plan.

Washington, D. C., March 18 (AP).—Sen. Vandenberg (R., Mich.) has filed with the state department proposals to amend the Dumbarton Oaks agreements to provide, among other things, for review of war time political decisions threatening future peace.

The Michigan senator declined to discuss the proposed amendments, but he said today the world security conference in San Francisco faces "the tremendous responsibility" of deciding if the projected international organization will be limited in its operations to enforcement of peace table decisions without change.

Making and Keeping Peace.

"Peace making and peace keeping are two totally different functions," he told a reporter. "The San Francisco conference will deal only with peace keeping. It must be followed by another conference which does the actual peace making.

"But there is this collateral relationship. The San Francisco conference will have the tremendous responsibility of deciding whether peace keeping is to be confined to the status quo which the peace makers dictate, or whether the new peace league shall have jurisdiction broad enough to explore and recommend correction of errors and injustices in the peace itself which could again threaten ultimate war."

Wants Advance Action.

Vandenberg said he expects the proposals which he has filed with the state department to be laid before the American delegation in advance of the international meeting.

It is his understanding that the delegation will decide whether they and any amendments proposed by others of the American group are to be laid formally before the allies.

Supporters have contended the Dumbarton Oaks agreements leave the way open for the proposed league to review such political decisions as European boundary definitions.

It is Vandenberg's position that, under the tentative agreements reached at Dumbarton Oaks last summer, the organization could not act until some specific threat of aggression is cited to it.

He fears that even if it becomes obvious a year or two afterward that some decision of the peacemakers is going to cause conflict a decade later, the security league may find itself unable to start its review machinery in time to prevent another war.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 18 (AP).—The 4th naval district today announced the names of two pilots killed when their planes from Atlantic City naval air station crashed during a heavy fog Thursday night. They were Bentley Piper, Santa Ana, Cal., and Bernard Morris Hudson, 632 Wood dr., Lorena, Ill.

Warns Britain Not to Yield Her Might at Frisco Parley

BY JAMES SLOAN.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, March 18. — Britain today was warned by a prominent economist, Dr. Paul Einzig, that the united nations conference opening in San Francisco April 25 may imperil the military and economic security of this country and the empire.

Writing in the Sunday Express, Einzig, banker and foreign editor of the Financial News, said if the conference confines itself to implementation of the Dumbarton Oaks security measures, there would be "no cause for concern provided Great Britain, while trusting the new system of collective security, kept her own powder dry." However, he counseled such a system would be good for Britain only "so long as excessive dependence on it did not relax our determination of remaining fully in a position to rely on ourselves in case the system should fail to work satisfactorily."

Threat to Empire Unity.

"Unfortunately there are indications that at San Francisco this country will be asked to consent to curtailment of its sovereign rights to a degree that would, in given circumstances, deprive it of its ability to maintain adequate defense forces under arms," Einzig asserted.

"What's more," he continued, "it will also be asked to adopt a course which will lead to disruption of the unity of the empire. For the sake of dubious benefits offered by the proposed international organization, this country is required to weaken considerably its power to safeguard its security and prosperity with the aid of its own resources and those of the empire." It would be suicidal to place ourselves in such a position, he added.

Mere Scrap of Paper.

Pointing out only its empire stood by it and saved Britain in 1940, Einzig concluded:

"The value of the Dumbarton Oaks system of collective security has yet to prove itself. In no circumstances imaginable would it be worth our while to sacrifice our ability to remain strong nationally and imperially for the sake of the proposed San Francisco charter, which might well prove to be a mere scrap of paper, no better than the league [of nations] covenant."

POPE PIUS FEARS DANGERS STREW ROAD TO PEACE

Given Wild Ovation by Huge Throng.

VATICAN CITY, March 18 (AP).—Pope Pius XII., addressing tens of thousands of Romans massed in the great St. Peter's square, today warned that the road to peace "still was covered with shadows which perhaps might conceal surprises and dangers."

The pontiff said that no matter how man strove to plan for a stable future, often he spied "a malignant spirit" across his path which disturbed, at least for the moment, the best of plans.

The pope was greeted by a wild ovation from the massed throng, including many allied troops. Many women in the thickly pressed crowd fainted, and some Vatican attaches said the gathering surpassed that which witnessed the pope's coronation six years ago.

Ends Lenten Missions.

The pontiff's appearance at the loge overlooking the square was heralded by a papal gendarme, who blew a silver trumpet. The pope's address marked the conclusion of Lenten missions held through Rome.

The pontiff said, "The reconciliation of peoples cannot have the guarantee of stability" if it is not accomplished liberally and with generosity. He declared that after the great conflict it would be difficult to believe that any one would seek to use the peace organization for his own advantage.

"Such a man," he declared, "in fact might well appear for the moment as a benefactor of humanity. But history later would classify him among those who, in a great, grave and decisive hour, have deluded the hopes of the peoples."

Huge Cross Over Door.

The address was preceded by a procession led by Federico Cardinal Tedeschini bearing sacred relics. A huge cross hung on red tapestry was placed over the main door of St. Peter's. Before the pope appeared the crowd chanted litanies.

Hours before the ceremony, lines of parishioners filed from their churches thruout the city reciting the Rosary. The diplomatic corps at the Holy See was well represented.

CHINESE SEIZE JUNCTION 45 MI. WEST OF LASHIO

CALCUTTA, India, March 18 (AP).—Chinese troops have captured Hsipaw, important Burma road junction 45 miles west of Lashio, threatening Japanese escape routes eastward from northern Burma.

South of Mandalay, where Japanese forces still are resisting desperately from the southwest corner of Fort Dufferin, allied forces control all major routes to the south, leaving the enemy only tortuous mountain trails eastward to Thailand.

The Chinese column which took Hsipaw moved southward from Namtu and entered the town after a brisk battle with the Japanese garrison. An enemy counterattack was beaten off. The allies now hold Maymyo, Hsipaw, and Lashio, the three most important towns on the Mandalay-Lashio road.

$200 IN WHISKY STOLEN.

Burglars stole $73 and whisky worth $200 from his tavern at 3152 Lake st., Sam Steinberg reported to police yesterday.

NEW NAZI PEACE BID REPORTED BY PARIS PRESS

PARIS, March 18 (AP).—Some Paris papers today published uncredited dispatches, datelined Washington, outlining terms of an armistice request which they said German Marshal Von Rundstedt had reportedly made to the western allies and which they said had been flatly rejected.

These reports, without any allied confirmation, said that Von Rundstedt had proposed a surrender plan under which the American and British armies would occupy all of Germany up to the present Russian front.

Some other Paris paper published dispatches datelined London, quoting Reuters news agency as saying, "Some military experts at Washington declare that even if Germany offered unconditional surrender over this week-end, the allies would refuse acceptance until Russian and Anglo-American troops had made their juncture in the center of Germany."

Reports on Nazi Moves.

L'Humanite, organ of the French Communist party, asserted flatly that "The directors of Hitlerite Germany are multiplying their advances to the English and American allies.

It added that the wives of Reichsmarshal Goering and Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop were in Switzerland and that Frau Goering had visited the wife of the British minister in Bern.

[The Swiss radio took occasion to deny rumors that Von Ribbentrop himself was in Switzerland, saying, "Competent authorities are completely in the dark about any such journey and declare that such rumors belong to the realm of fantasy."]

Warns Against Peace.

L'Humanite said that Von Rundstedt was calling on the western allies to save Germany from Russian occupation. The paper warned against any peace involving less than full extermination of the present leadership of Germany.

It declared that behind the German moves was "the will to save Germany from punishment, to conserve its general staff and all its possibilities of resuming its war policy after a few decades."

HOME LOOTED BY BURGLARS.

Walter Robinson, 7247 S. Oakley av., reported to police yesterday that burglars entered his home and took $50, an electric razor, four boxes of cigars, and a table radio valued at $52.

LABORITE ATTACKS MISCHIEF MAKING IN CHURCHILL SPEECH

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, March 18.—Prime Minister Churchill's hint to the Labor and Liberal parties in last week's Conservative convention to stay aboard the coalition bandwagon before the coming general election or rejoin it afterward was the target of hostile Labor comment over the week-end.

Arthur Greenwood, leader of the Labor Parliamentary party, described as "misleading and mischief making" that part of the Churchill speech in which he charged the Socialists with having committed themselves to a program of complete nationalization to the disgust of their own leaders.

Emmanuel Shinwell, Labor member of parliament, predicted at Plymouth today that Labor would refuse to associate with the Conservatives when the war was over. He said "there is a shrewd suspicion that our industrial and financial policy is dictated by American interests and that Churchill is largely responsible. The prime minister's speech was a complete surrender to the die-hards in the Tory party."

YANKS LAND IN BAY ON LUZON TO CUT PENINSULA

Push Ahead and Reach Terminal Town.

MANILA, March 19 [Monday] (AP). —Elements of Brig. Gen. Hanford MacNider's 158th regimental combat team landed Saturday at Talaga, on the northwest shore of Batangas bay of southern Luzon, in a move to secure the Calumpan peninsula.

The Yanks pushed quickly north from Talaga to reach the town of Mabini, eastern terminus of a road severing the peninsula, which juts into the Verde Island passage between Balayan and Batangas bays. Counter-attack in the area was repulsed.

American forces fighting in the watershed area east of Manila pushed rapidly thru difficult terrain into secondary Japanese defenses, sweeping to a point five miles east of Antipolo, once the southern anchor of the bitterly held Shimbu line.

On Mindanao, the 41st division, with close air support, drove northward in the hills above captured Zamboanga, turning back several counter-attacks in the area north of Pasonanca, five miles inland.

Formosa Bombed Again.

Heavy bombers raked Formosa with 300 tons of explosives, sweeping Taihoku town in the north and the important air bases of Heito and Okayama in the southwest sector. Fires and explosions were observed in buildings and among parked aircraft. Two American planes were lost.

1st Cavalry Cited.

The 1st cavalry division has been cited by Maj. Gen. F. C. Sibert, commanding general of the 10th corps, for its outstanding performance of duty on Leyte Island from Oct. 20 to Dec. 25.

"The Japanese had succeeded in landing large forces at Ormoc [on Leyte's west coast," said the citation. "Captured documents indicated the Japanese planned to seize high ground separating Leyte and Ormoc valleys as a line of departure for an attack to retake Leyte. The 1st cavalry division was given the mission of securing and holding the western exits of these mountains.

Battle for 42 Days.

"For 42 grueling days, subjected to incessant tropical rains, receiving food and ammunition only thru most ingenious and resourceful employment of all means of supply, including air drop, native carrier trains and carabao, battling almost impassable terrain, claiming and crawling over narrow, slippery trails, wading thru waist deep rivers and streams, and constantly subjected to artillery, mortar and small arms fire, the courageous soldiers of the 1st cavalry repeatedly and vigorously attacked and drove the enemy from his positions crest by crest and mountain by mountain."

The citation also said "often patrols from engineer, signal, and quartermaster units voluntarily went out to locate and annihilate isolated pockets. For each of its own soldiers killed, the division accounted for more than 24 of the enemy."

SUPER FORTS HIT NAGOYA SECOND TIME IN A WEEK

2,500 Tons of Bombs Dropped on City.

The broadcast said the flyers concentrated on air fields, with Kumamoto and other cities on Kyushu Island bearing the heaviest part of the attack.

A Japanese bulletin claimed that Japanese aircraft hit the United States task force off the southeast coast of Kyushu and sank a battleship or converted carrier and a cruiser and set a carrier afire. A subsequent Tokyo broadcast broadened the claim to three United States warships sunk, including two carriers.

Mikado Visits Ruins.

Tokyo also announced that Emperor Hirohito presonally inspected the wreckage left in the Japanese capital by 300 American Super Fortresses March 10.

For an hour, Tokyo said, the emperor looked over the devasted areas of the capital. It added that Shigeo Odachi, home minister, said, "it was an awe inspiring gesture and our hearts are simply overwhelmed as we humbly observed his majesty's sentiments.

"We, the 100,000,000 people, are renewing the determination to defend the sacred national structure with all our might and are pledging ourselves that his imperial majesty's mind shall be eased."

Heretofore the emperor has received reports on air raid damages from the imperial chamberlain.

A domestic broadcast indicated that Japan is losing, contact with Iwo Island. It said American marines had "gradually" penetrated Japanese strongholds on the little island and that "consequently the communications have more or less the tendency to stop."

Bomb Japs Again

ASSIGN AUSSIE FORCE TO HELP GEN. M'ARTHUR

San Francisco, Cal., March 18 (AP). —Australia has assigned additional troops—"a splendid striking force"—to Gen. MacArthur for use when "strategically practicable," Francis M. Forde, Australia's army minister, disclosed today. "Their objective is defeat of Japan," he said.

Addressing a press conference after his arrival here enroute to Washington, D. C., Forde said the troops were in addition to the Australian expeditionary forces engaged in eliminating 250,000 Japanese in by-passed islands of the southwest Pacific.

Forde extolled MacArthur as "the outstanding military leader of the age." He said "the role of Australia in the Pacific war is a matter to be determined by the commander in chief who acts in consultation with Prime Minister Curtin and the Australian government."

He said the by-passed Japanese exist "as a disciplined organization, armed and supplied, between the Philippines and Australia." There are 90,000 alone on New Britain, he estimated.

JAPS RUN OUT OF FIREMEN TO PUT OUT BOMB FIRES

San Francisco, Cal., March 18 (AP). —Japan's parliament, called back into session to discuss "emergency measures dealing with the current grave war situation," yesterday heard a demand that firemen be exempted or discharged from military service to cope with incendiary fires set by American bombers.

In a directive to Premier Koiso, a member related that the number of persons evacuated from cities amounts to only 20 per cent of the total population. He urged the government to evacuate civilians "on a much greater scale."

Premier Koiso, in answer to these demands, said measures for the decentralization of major cities had been put into effect long ago and "right now, the buildings, as well as the people, are being swiftly decentralized and evacuated."

Greeks Sentence Woman to 'National Indignity'

ATHENS, Greece, March 18 [Reuters].—The first person to be sentenced in Greece to "national indignity," which involves the loss of all civil rights, is Maria Cotsis, 43. She also was sentenced yesterday to a year in prison by the special tribunal trying collaborationists. She had handed over several patriots to the Italian police.

MARCH OF DEATH VET BACK; TEARS, KISSES—CAKE!

Tears, kisses, and happiness marked the homecoming at Chicago airport yesterday of Corp. James Hildebrand, 24, who was greeted by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. August Hildebrand, 7708 Stewart av., and two sisters. After he arrived by United Airlines and was welcomed, it was home, a huge piece of his favorite chocolate cake, and a cup of coffee for the death march veteran who was freed Jan. 30 at Cabanatuan prison.

Corp. James Hildebrand.

"I had a feeling all the time that the Americans would return," said Corp. Hildebrand, "but I wondered often if I would last it out long enough." He was captured April 9, 1942, on Luzon. The corporal said he was forced by the Japs to perform farm work and manual labor on air fields, but was sick and hospitalized six months with beri-beri and pellagra. His weight, normally 145 pounds, dropped to 98. He now weighs 152 pounds.

A former telephone installer for the Western Electric company, Hildebrand entered the army Aug. 23, 1941, and landed in the Philippines 18 days before Pearl Harbor was attacked. After a 60 day furlough he will report for orders.

Two More Jap Admirals Die (in Action This Time)

San Francisco, March 18 (AP). — Two Japanese vice admirals have met "gallant death" in action against the United States navy, Tokyo radio said today, bringing to 94 the total of admirals whose deaths have been announced in a year. Adm. Kiichi Endo, 55, was killed in the South Pacific in May, 1944, and Takeo Takagi, 54, died in battle in the Central Pacific last July.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., March 18.—The Roosevelt administration is split wide open from White House to capitol over the President's program for pouring out America's dwindling resources for the economic reconstruction of Europe.

The Roosevelt program, involving an expenditure of 20 billion dollars or more on top of 40 billion dollars of lend-lease up to date, to repair the ravages of war and put allied and liberated European countries on their feet, is being supported enthusiastically by the New Dealers and particularly by Sidney Hillman's communist controled CIO political action committee and by Earl Browder's communists, who constitute soviet Russia's most potent propaganda agency in the United States. Russia wants about half of the 20 billions.

Under Fire on All Sides.

Aligned against the program in coalition with the Republicans are the conservative Democrats, apprehensive that America is being bled white to carry out New Deal plans for a European PWA and WPA at the expense of American tax payers for generations to come. With sardonic reference to Mr. Roosevelt's characterization of Al Smith as the "happy warrior" they assail the global economic schemes of the "happy humanitarian of the White House who never balanced a budget."

The President finds himself under fire in and out of congress in connection with his European reconstruction program which he is already putting into effect in the guise of lend-lease. Rep. Wolcott [R., Mich.] raised the question of the 20 billion dollar post-war rehabilitation schemes at the house banking committee hearing on the Bretton Woods world bank and currency stabilization project. He was informed that Assistant Secretary of State Dean Acheson would have a statement to make on this subject at the hearing tomorrow.

Byrnes First to Revolt.

For the last fortnight there has been a moving political drama behind the scenes as the opposition to "economic globaloney" took shape and culminated in a palace revolt when "Assistant President" Byrnes cracked down on the outpouring of American supplies of food, machinery, raw materials, and other goods to Europe in order to conserve American resources.

The first inkling of the colossal giveaway of American resources planned by the President and already under way was given in his speech to congress reporting on the Yalta conference. He told how he proposes to put the liberated countries of Europe on their feet by furnishing locomotives, trucks, machine tools, raw materials, and other articles for the rehabilitation of their industry. Presumably such rehabilitation of countries liberated from Nazi rule would cost American taxpayers several billion dollars. It already was known that a new Russian lend-lease agreement involving about 4 billions was in process of negotiation and the soviets had estimated that they would want another 6 billion dollars' worth of American machinery and other products after the war on long term credit at nominal interest. The British, crying poverty, were angling for an outright gift or easy long term loan of about 5 billions.

French Beat Others.

The French, however, beat all the others to Uncle Sam's till with a lend-lease agreement for goods valued at 2½ billion dollars, ostensibly for the prosecution of the war but actually intended for post-war economic rehabilitation. The items include 840 million dollars' worth of cotton, metals, chemicals, and synthetic rubber; food, 185 millions; petroleum supplies, 132 millions; locomotives, 200 millions; railroad cars, 120 millions; merchant ships, 140 millions; inland waterway barges, 50 millions; metal working machinery, 100 millions; freight charges, rental and charter of merchant vessels, 220 millions.

American steamship operators informed congress that this donation to France will retard development of American post-war shipping. France, they said, could toss back the chartered ships after building a new merchant marine with which to compete with the outmoded American merchant fleet.

The agreement provides that the items not actually used for war purposes may be paid for by the French government in 30 annual instalments at 2⅜ per cent interest. Payment of an instalment may be postponed by agreement of both parties. Whether payment can be expected is a question raised in view of default by France of payment of the first World war debt, including 400 millions for just such military supplies for post-war civilian consumption as are to be furnished under the current agreement.

Evidence of Intent.

Declaring the French agreement evidence that the President intends to shell out American resources for European economic reconstruction in the guise of lend-lease the Republicans in the house foreign affairs committee, which was considering legislation to extend lend-lease another year, sought a limitation of the advances to military purposes only. They were voted down by the Democrats.

In the meantime the United States was being pressed to increase enormously the shipment of food and other articles for the relief of France, Belgium, and other liberated countries while the British refused to divert to such relief any substantial part of their colossal stockpile of supplies built up largely thru the aid of lend-lease. The United States did increase lend-lease food deliveries more than 200 million pounds in January over the month before. The President had sent Sam Rosenman to get the British to loosen up on their stockpile but to no avail.

All these revelations fanned the storm of discontent with the President's open handedness with American resources. The action by Byrnes to clamp down on the outflow except for actual military purposes swiftly followed. And no less electrical was the about-face of the Democrats in the house who accepted the Republican limitation on lend-lease to war purposes which they had rejected a week before.

March 18, 1945.

THE famous crop rotation of corn, oats, and clover, typical of midwestern farms, makes it easy to predict the planting plans for the Fox river farm this year merely by scanning last year's plan.

It is safe to assume that a field planted to corn last year for the first time will go into corn again this year. Next year the field will be sown to oats and a legume. After the small grain harvest the field will move into its fourth year as hayland.

No Big Changes.

For this reason there are no significant changes in the Fox river planting plans for this year. A total of 483.4 acres will be planted to corn compared with 449.2 acres last year. The oats fields will total 185.3 acres compared with 205.1 in oats last year. Pastures and woodlands will take up 539.4 acres, haylands, 70.9 acres, and farmsteads 53 acres. As usual there is strong emphasis upon hay and pasture lands because the farm carries a large breeding herd of Aberdeen-Angus cows and calves.

From a working standpoint, the layout of the farm is ideal. The northern half of the land, especially along the river, is rolling and wooded. It is well suited for pasture and it is here that the Angus cows roam during the summer. They drop their calves on pasture and seldom are bothered by humans except when the weekly count is made from a hilltop to see that all the animals are safe.

Long Corn Rows.

The southern part of the farm is level and stretches out into long fields that make crop cultivation easy. The men are able to plant long rows of corn in large fields and waste little time in turning the corners.

The recent warm days and lack of excess moisture in the ground are hurrying the day when preparation of the oats ground gets under way. Some of the high spots in the fields could be disked now if necessary.

All of the farm's seed has been purchased and the equipment is ready. The workers are not too optimistic, however, for they believe a snowstorm or a cold snap still is not out of the question. If spring does stay, they will be ready altho there is a shortage of labor as usual this year.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

THE winter's heavy snows, packed atop lawns which were dry from the autumn drouth, have caused excessive "snow mold" on creeping bent and Astoria bent lawns all over the Chicago area. Blue grass lawns survived the unusual winter conditions, as did blue grass turfs thickened with Astoria bent, but pure bent lawns in many places are covered with a mold which resembles heavy cobwebs.

The two main steps to be taken on bent lawns affected with snow mold are brushing with a light, flexible rake and light fertilization. Heavy raking will disrupt the turf, but light steel or bamboo rakes can be used to sweep off the heaviest of the surface mold.

Most of the molded bent lawns will recuperate after a few spring rains. By digging below the surface for a sample of the roots the gardener can examine runners and tell if the roots have been killed.

British Want Ads Seek Aids for Occupied Reich

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, March 18.—The labor ministry published today in virtually every Sunday paper an advertisment seeking experienced engineers, chemists, physicists, metallurgists, architects, and surveyors for the control commission for occupied areas of Germany. The specialists will be paid $2,000 to $4,000 a year, plus board, lodging, and foreign service allowances.

8 Germans 'Tired of War' Reach Sweden in Boat

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 18 (AP).—A boat with eight German men and women, who said they were "tired of war," arrived at a small Swedish port near Goteborg today.

BELT TIGHTENING ALARMS BRITONS AS U. S. CUTS AID

LONDON, March 18 (AP).—English housewives, startled by a Washington announcement that lend-lease meat supplies from the United States would be cut 87 per cent during the next quarter, saw themselves tonight on the brink of perhaps the greatest food crisis of the war.

Newspapers treated the announcement as sensational. The Sunday Dispatch, devoted all its editorial space to discussion of British needs and a continuance of American generosity, which it said was necessary in this sixth year of the war.

Tightest Year of War.

Food Minister J. J. Llewellin said this would be the tightest year of the war for food, adding:

"Out of our accumulated stocks we have made substantial amounts available for liberated areas, and we are now in nearly every instance down to a minimum for proper distribution in this country."

That was Llewellin's comment on reports that England was hoarding lend-lease supplies.

London newspapers said that under the new allotment of 25,000,000 pounds in the next three months, contrasting with 200,000,000 pounds in the present quarter, the ration of American meat would break down to less than one ounce a person weekly, compared with a former ration of about half a pound.

Cite Stresses of War.

They added that hundreds of millions of pounds of food had been released from British emergency reserves and sent to liberated areas in France, Holland, and Belgium in answer to appeals from Gen. Eisenhower.

There seemed little disposition here to go along with what was reported from America as one theory behind the cut—that British reserves were large enough to sustain England without any great American assistance.

"In these islands," the Sunday Dispatch said, "civilian morale has been, and still is, subject to stresses that America has been spared.

"We have known anxieties of war for a longer period. We have been tighening our belts for years. And if Americans should be driven to forming food queues, those in them will not have the added discomfort of knowing that at any moment the queue may be exterminated by a wanton V-weapon."

Doing "Very Best."

Despite statements by Llewelin that he was doing his "very best" to see that the nation's meat ration was not cut further, agitation over rumors to the contrary may force some announcement in commons.

British housewives, struggling to feed families on 24 cents worth of meat per person each week—about enough for one meal—have been troubled by persistent reports of a serious food shortage.

The live stock situation over the world is pictured as so serious that British butchers expect meat rations will have to be supplemented by canned corned beef as it was for a short period in 1943. Australia and New Zealand, from which England had ordered a large amount of beef for this year, have undergone severe drouths.

SPAIN LETS U. S. BUILD AIRPORT NEAR MADRID

MADRID, Spain, March 18 (AP).—Spain and the United States have completed an agreement for the development of a new airfield opposite the Madrid airport to enable large planes to handle air borne American supplies for allied armies of occupation and for the people of liberated countries, it was announced today.

The field eventually will be converted into civilian use for American and other post-war transport planes, augmenting the facilities of the Barajas field at Madrid.

'NO FOOD' EDICT RAISES DOLEFUL ECHO ON RHINE

Army Faces Stiff Test in Evacuation Job.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KREFELD, Germany, March 18.—United States policy of "no food for the Germans" faces its severest test in the next 48 hours as the American army evacuates all civilians from zones on the west bank of the Rhine. The army is attempting to save them from shell and small arms fire of the Nazis, constantly spraying the east bank, and to give our military forces freedom of action without jeopardizing the local populace.

Today an endless stream of some 35,000 persons was moving westward from Uerdingen, trundling all portable belongings and seeking food, shelter, and work in rear areas on the way.

Thousands of Russians, Poles, Italians, French, Slovaks, and other forced laborers were included in the doleful procession, but a majority were German women, children, babes in arms, and old men. Some of the women stumbled under heavy sacks on their backs.

Major Faces Problem.

The whole mass of hungry refugees is the concern of Maj. John Wiley of Cheyenne, Wyo., military governor of the area, who must find the means of housing and feeding them without disobeying the Washington edict of "no food for the Germans."

Wiley faces another problem. The French, Belgian, and Holland governments refuse to permit the horde of Russians, Poles, Italians, and Slovaks to enter their territory.

Authorities may be forced to lodge the refugees in unsanitary air raid shelters which they regard as potential epidemic breeding spots and hence a danger to American troops.

Doctors Stand By to Aid.

United States army ambulances, nurses, and doctors are standing by to care for the women and children and expectant mothers, or the aged who drop in their tracks. Military government officials in the area may be forced to cut red tape and issue some succor to the refugees despite the government policy.

Meanwhile, the limping parade goes on. The refugees have been ordered to be out of the area before noon tomorrow.

Pvt. John E. Thornton visiting Tribune yesterday.

With a piece of German shrapnel still in his lip, Pvt. John E. Thornton, 17 W. Chicago av., a Tribune guard on military leave, came home on 16 day hospital furlough yesterday. Pvt. Thornton joined the army in October, 1943, went overseas last April, and was wounded on July 17 by mortar fire near St. Lo, France, while carrying machine gun ammunition to his unit with Gen. Hodges' 1st army.

Pvt. Thornton wears the Purple Heart, the combat infantryman's badge, and a European theater of operations ribbon with stars denoting two major battles. He served in Scotland, England, France, and Germany. Landing in the United States three weeks ago on the eve of his 37th birthday was the best present he ever had, Pvt. Thornton said.

SEIZE STOLEN GAS STAMPS FOR 12,600,000 GALS.

Recovery of stolen ration coupons representing 12,650,000 gallons of gasoline was announced yesterday by regional office of price administration officials, after raids Saturday night and yesterday by Wabash avenue police on the apartments of four Negroes. The coupons were stolen in the burglary of the OPA warehouse at 559 E. Illinois st. on March 15.

Still missing are coupons representing 1,100,000 gallons of gasoline, taken in the burglary. Recovery of part of the stolen coupons revealed for the first time that the burglars obtained 750,000 R-3 coupons, good for 3,750,000 gallons of gasoline for nonhighway use, not originally reported by the OPA as stolen. These were in addition to the 2,000,000 C-7 coupons, good for 10,000,000 gallons, which the OPA had listed as missing.

Other Arrests Made.

R-3 coupons good for 3,650,000 gallons of gasoline were seized Saturday night in the apartment of Melvin Cross, Negro, 4853 Langley av. A total of C-7 coupons good for 3,600,000 gallons and $3,000, said to represent proceeds from the sale of other coupons, were seized yesterday with the arrest of Aurand Holmes, 19, another Negro, living at 651 E. 46th st.

Also held were William White of 4603 St. Lawrence av. and Herman Bradley of 704 E. 46th st., both Negroes. Police accuse them of the actual burglary. It was said large quantities of stamps were recovered in their homes. White formerly was employed in the OPA warehouse. All four held will be arraigned today in federal District court.

In the raid on Cross' apartment, police also seized a quantity of narcotics, which they believe to include narcotics recently reported stolen from several Chicago hospitals.

Police indicated that Cross and Holmes were not suspected of participation in the actual burglary of the warehouse. Police are seeking three more persons, all said to be former employes in the warehouse, in connection with the burglary.

Coupon Invalidated.

Richard Greenburg, executive officer of the regional OPA office, said a complete audit of the coupons recovered, as well as an audit at the warehouse, will be completed within three or four days. He said the burglary was made possible by mechanical failure of the warehouse burglar alarm system.

The stolen coupons, which were invalidated by the OPA after the theft was discovered, will be sealed in a special depository, Greenburg said, pending advise from Washington as to their ultimate disposal.

TWO ON TROLLEY CAR HURT.

Two passengers on a State st. trolley car, Mrs. Lulu Rucker, 33, of 1837 Walnut st., and Charles Wilburn, 42, of 2857 Prairie av., both Negroes, were injured when the car was derailed by a faulty switch at 18th st. yesterday.

MONASTERY ON LUZON TURNED INTO REST CLUB

Chicago Yanks Enjoy Its Comforts.

BY WALTER SIMMONS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE 6TH DIVISION EAST OF MANILA, March 18.—Pvt. James Finazzo Jr., of 524 Denvir av., Chicago, was groggy after 62 days of continuous combat the other day when he came down from the hills fronting the enemy's Shimbu line.

Today he was calm and confident again—another satisfied customer of the 6th division's unique rest center for front line fighters.

Newly established, the rest center is housed in a huge monastery well behind the lines. Every four days, each regiment sends 100 men to take the rest "course"—to know the luxury of sleeping on cots again, to be served like officers in a large mess hall, to spend their days reading, writing letters, seeing the latest movies, playing games, and catching up on their sleep.

Other Chicagoans Rest.

Pvt. Finazzo killed two Japs on hill 62—named for the number of enemy dead counted there. He and another G. I. discovered the cave which housed this enemy concentration.

Other battle wise Chicago infantrymen were taking it easy at the rest center today. Pvt. John Schabord of 511 W. 42d st., who once killed a bold Jap who tried to join a Yank chow line, and whose squad once surprised 11 Japs and killed them all, was pleased with the cold beer ration. Pvt. William O'Neill of 2113 McVickers av., an aid man, praised the work of Red Cross Field Director H. A. Cummins of New Hampshire, who has a large stock of candy, fruit juices, cookies, magazines, and toilet articles — and dishes them out generously.

Pvt. George Zajicek of 5243 S. Winchester av., another medic, remembered best the banzai charge of six Japs with white shoelaces. Pvt. Louis Sbarboro of 2218 Warren blvd. experienced four banzai attacks in a single night and counted 90 enemy dead piled up in front of the Yank positions in the morning.

Japs Carry Flashlights.

"Those Japs carried little flashlights that looked like fireflies," he said. "Their wounded moaned and cried, 'Tojo!' for hours."

Zajicek told of the heroism of Pvt. Fred Delrose of Joliet, Ill., a medic who is still at the front.

"Time and again, I've seen that guy risk his neck to get our wounded out," he said.

Other Chicagoans in the rest camp were Sgt. Walter Motyka of 3030 Nagle av., a heavy machine gun squad leader; Pvt. Edward Mauer, 8841 Commercial av., a rifleman who had spent three days on a hilltop under heavy artillery fire, and Pvt. Robert Beutlich, 3446 N. Albany av., a walkie-talkie operator. The camp was the idea of Maj. Robert De Lay, Wessington Springs, S. D., division special service officer.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by J. Sidney Walter, 500 N. Chicago av., South Milwaukee, Wis.]

THE QUESTION.

At what time in the past would you like to have lived?

WHERE ASKED.

Conway building, 111 W. Washington st.

THE ANSWERS.

Eileen Giblin, bookkeeper, 2230 S. Lawndale av.—We hear a lot about the gay '90s, and from what I've read I think that must have been an exciting time in which to have lived. Women were beginning to break out of the shell they had been in for years. It was a daring age, and if I could pick a time—that's it.

Dorothy Wren, saleslady, 1416 Farragut av.—I've just finished a book about the French in the 1700s. There was so much grandeur in their clothes, carriages, and ways of living. The rich had lavish parties and balls. It wouldn't have been fun being of the poorer class then, however.

Edward Daker, student, 9838 Throop st.—Most of all I'd like to have been one of the soldiers in Gen. George Washington's army. Then I'd want to be one of the men who participated in drawing up the Constitution. Every one of that time was ambitious and energetic.

Thora Brainerd, bookkeeper, 817 Agatite av.—I'll take the days of the gold rush to California in 1849. What courage those people had to go across a strange country in covered wagons! And how exciting their plans must have been, dreaming of huge fortunes in gold! Of course, many were disappointed. But it would have been thrilling.

Ann Slobodnik, bookkeeper, 4347 Walton st.—During the period in which Robin Hood supposedly lived, in medieval times, would be my choice. I can visualize the large castles, with their huge fireplaces, courts, and jesters. They had many celebrations and big feasts. The wild countryside must have been beautiful.

Counts Wife's Chickens and Stays Out of Hatch

Poplar Bluff, Mo., March 18 (AP).—A farmer paid his fine in police court for being drunk and disorderly, then asked for a receipt. He held up the receipt and remarked: "Now my wife will know where her chicken and egg money went."

LEGION DENIES TAKING PART IN SMITH PROTEST

American Legion officials here denied yesterday that any Illinois members participated officially in a protest demonstration Thursday night outside Temple hall, 330 S. Marshfield av., while Gerald L. K. Smith, held an America First party mass meeting. John S. Cusack, commander of the Cook county council of the Legion, said in a letter to THE TRIBUNE that no Illinois Legion posts are identified under the names shown on caps worn by several older men in the mob of 500 demonstrators.

Names appearing on the caps purportedly were those of the Gov. Horner and Lt. C. H. Kerschenbaum posts, neither of which, Cusack says, exist in Illinois. The Kerschenbaum post, THE TRIBUNE learned, originates in Passaic, N. J. Other investigation disclosed that the men wearing the caps were seen leaving and entering an automobile bearing Illinois license 27-655.

This number was traced to one J. H. Neuman, 511 S. Drexel blvd., said to be a fictitious address. Police are endeavoring to locate the owner due to the false address. They explained that the owner probably procured his license plates personally at the Chicago office of the secretary of state, giving the false address.

DENTISTS TOP RED CROSS GOAL BY 22 PER CENT

Chicago dentists are the fourth group to go over the top in the current Red Cross war fund campaign, with 122 6 per cent of their quota, Martin H. Kennelly, general chairman, said yesterday. Other groups near the top are stocks and grains, florists, and personal finance.

Today is the 19th day of the drive and according to Kennelly, Chicago is well on its way toward achieving the quota of $11,300,000. "For several days we have been ahead of receipts for corresponding dates of the 1944 drive," he said.

Kennelly warned that "victory and demobilization will bring harder work and increasing responsibility for Red Cross" and urged workers to hold the line during the rest of the campaign.

UNION MEETING FAILS TO BREAK GARY SLOWDOWN

A meeting between Joseph Goin, subdistrict director of the United Steel Workers [CIO] and 130 employes of the sheet and tin mill of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel company at Gary yesterday failed to break the slowdown which the men have been conducting at the mill.

The slowdown started a week ago when the company attempted to accelerate the movement of pickling lines from 180 to 200 feet a minute. The men agreed to return to work at 11:30 p. m. last night, but only to handle material at the 180 foot rate.

Company officials said last night that a total of 27,500 tons of steel has been lost to date because of the slowdown.

Men Give Party

More than 20 original drawings by cartoonists, including several by Carey Orr and Joseph Parrish of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, were auctioned last night at a Red Cross benefit at the University of Chicago. The party was sponsored by the men students in Judson court. Besides the newspaper cartoons, signed Varga calendars and an autographed date book were auctioned. Movies and a floor show were given in conjunction with the auction. All proceeds went to the Midway Red Cross drive.

Stimson Hails Marines' Heroism in Iwo Conquest

Washington, D. C., March 18 (AP).—Secretary of War Stimson congratulated the marine corps today on its conquest of Iwo Island and said the feat "has brought closer the day of our final victory in the Pacific." In a letter to navy secretary Forrestal, he said: "Never has the marine corps been called upon to overcome an enemy entrenched in such well placed and stubborn fortifications. Never has the corps acted more heroically."

EXPERTS OBJECT TO AIRPORT PLAN AT CLEARING SITE

They Call It Too Close to Present Field.

BY FRANK STURDY.

The Clearing site where a great post-war air terminal is proposed lies south of the present airport at 63d st. and Cicero av., opposite the large Dodge-Chicago aircraft engine factory.

There have been several proposals for boundaries of the site, the most ambitious setting them at Cicero av. on the east, Harlem av. on the west, 71st st. on the north, and 95th st. on the south. One of the Chicago Plan commission's studies set the east boundary at Central av.

Plenty of Vacant Land.

There is plenty of vacant land in the area, which is almost entirely unimproved, but a large airport would require the permanent closing of some streets that in the future might prove important. The principal objection to Clearing raised by the air lines' engineering committee was that it is too close to the present airport.

Only three air miles separate the centers of the two sites. The city has an investment of some 13 million dollars in the present airport and more money will go into it before the major air line operations are moved to a new terminal. When they are moved, Mayor Kelly has said, the outgrown field will be kept in operation for private pilots, charter, and cargo operations for which it still will be suitable.

In all the diversity of opinion about where the new airport should be located and what it should be, there never has been any suggestion that the old airport be abandoned and its expensive, paved runways, hangars, drainage, and lighting systems tossed in the discard.

Wind Dictates Direction.

Yet that would be almost inevitable, air traffic experts believe, were the new terminal to be built on the Clearing site. They see no possibility, even with the aid of the superior radio navigation equipment expected after the war, for large numbers of planes to be flown simultaneously in and out of two airports so close together.

Airplanes approaching terminals fly fixed traffic patterns dictated by wind direction. Vast study has been given the problem of keeping them at safe distances from each other over big terminals, and this will become increasingly difficult as plane schedules expand, particularly in instrument flying weather.

The civil aeronautics administration a few months ago issued an advisory notice to its regional offices setting 14 miles as the desirable distance between airports with simultaneous instrument flight operations. Considerable opposition has developed to this recommendation, and obviously it would, if enforced, mean large cities requiring more than one airport could not have them located within convenient motoring distance for air travelers.

CAA Approval Vital.

While it is believed the CAA will modify this requirement and also will make exceptions in special cases to whatever rule is eventually adopted, none of the experts believe the distance will be reduced to as little as three miles.

The CAA's approval of any airport site is vital, particularly to a large city, because it not only has authority to prohibit air line operation from an airport considered hazardous, but will have an important voice in post-war distribution of federal funds for new airport construction.

Cite Travel Distance.

The Clearing site, which is farther from the loop than the present airport, depends for fast transportation on the same motor route as the present airport. Speedy motor travel to either one will not be possible until the proposed southwest expressway is built, after the war. This will cost an estimated $22,000,000. Acquisition of land in the Clearing area and construction of airport facilities will cost, it is estimated, at least $25,000,000.

That is the same price estimated for the Douglas airport near Park Ridge, which is favored by the air lines engineers. The Douglas site has no obstructions to flight, and also is free from the southwest side industrial district smoke plague that now hampers operations at the Chicago airport, and would probably do so in the Clearing area.

SCIENCE SEEKS PROOF TODAY OF FURNACE DEATH

A scientific study of ashes and residue taken from the furnace of an apartment building at 6855 Clyde av. will be started this morning at the police department's crime laboratory by Prof. Wilton M. Krogman, anatomist and anthropologist at the University of Chicago, in an effort to establish the fate of Mrs. Rose Michaelis, 59, and confirm the confession of a janitor that he killed her by placing her body in the furnace.

Several clinkers of lava-like property in which it is believed parts of human bone may have become fused will also undergo minute inspection. These specimens were recovered from a dumping ground near Robey, Ind., where ashes from the apartment were taken by scavenger service.

Numerous shoe nails and other metalic objects recovered with the aid of magnets by Charles Wilson, head of the laboratory, will also be studied. Illinois law demands that a definite trace of the woman be established before police can hope to convict Joseph Nischt, 30, the janitor, who confessed murdering the woman during "an urge to hurt some one" on Feb. 28.

ARMY TO HOLD COLLEGE TESTS FOR YOUTHS, 17

The tests will be open to applicants who are high school graduates or have finished one term of college work. The special examinations will be given in high schools and colleges.

Youths who pass the examination will be sworn into the enlisted reserve corps and will be assigned to a college near their homes for terms beginning in July, August, or September. Such students will not be called to active duty until after the end of the term in which they become 18.

In order to qualify, applicants must have been born after Sept. 30, 1927, and before Sept. 1, 1928. The army will furnish transportation to the college or university, housing, mess, tuition, books, medical care, and uniforms.

HOUSE MAY SCAN ARMY OUSTER OF ANTI-COMMUNIST

Officer Is Removed from Intelligence Job.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 17.—Infiltration of Communists and communist sympathizers into high places in the army and navy has been uncovered by members of the house subcommittee investigating the army's new policy of allowing Communists to receive commissions and hold highly confidential military posts.

When the committee resumes hearings this week, it is expected to inquire into the removal of Col. Joseph A. Michela from his post as chief of the soviet division of army intelligence. Members of the committee are prepared to ask the army whether the colonel was dropped because he is anti-Communist.

The Daily Worker on March 4 reported that Col. Michela had been quietly dropped from his post. It said that he had been "more consistently wrong about the Red army than any other war department official."

Study Blakeslee Books.

Committee members also were studying the books of Victor Blakeslee, chief public relations officer for Adm. Nimitz. Blakeslee with his Russian born wife, Irina Skariatina, has written a number of laudatory books on Russia.

In one, "New Worlds for Old," they describe a trip taken into the soviet union in 1934. On page 191 the book refers to a giant electric station in these words: "But its impression remained, bearing out the words of Lenin: 'Soviets plus power equals Communism.'"

On page 193 Blakeslee took a sly dig at democracies in quoting a soviet commissar as saying, "Here in the U. S. S. R., we think we have democracy, too. Democracy in fact, and not only in theory."

Hope Replaces Luxury.

On page 194 he writes: "Here in Russia there is none of the luxury enjoyed by man in other countries, but definitely there is hope. We are going back where life is more comfortable, where man has an abundance of everything, but where hope in millions of breasts has reached its lowest ebb in history."

The subcommittee has learned that Raoul Berger, former special assistant to the attorney general, who wrote a defense of Earl Browder, communist leader, in a brief that was supposed to have opposed the ex-convict's petition for a writ of certiori, is a commissioned officer in the army.

"Petitioner's crime did not involve moral turpitude," the brief said. "He was not convicted of 'making a false statement,' the act made unlawful by the first portion of section 220 and one which may likewise be regarded as perjury. It was not a common law crime; it does not injure the one to whom it is exhibited; and it does not directly injure the government."

Others who are under subcommittee scrutiny are:

Capt. S. H. Blondheim, who was a contributor to the pro-Communist magazine "New Currents."

Staff Sgt. Sol Molofsky, recreation director of the CIO Wholesale and Warehouse union, local 65, which is reported Communist controled.

OBJECTOR CAMP BOSS RESIGNS; HITS 'SLAVERY'

Germfask, Mich., March 18 [Special].—Paul G. Voelker, manager of the conscientious objector camp here, announced today that he has resigned because he could not "take part in the administration of a system of unpaid, forced labor." Voelker took charge of the camp March 4.

The Germfask camp is one of three maintained by selective service for men unacceptable to the camps operated by religious organizations. There are about 80 inmates who receive an allowance of $5 a month from the government.

Voelker stated in his resignation that "I have found the selective service treatment of men in this camp to be the reëstablishment of slavery in our nation and the punishment of men whose conscience does not permit their participation in war."

Inmates of the camp have been doing tasks at the wild life refuge formerly assigned to WPA workers and CCC boys, but a survey of conditions in the camp this month disclosed that only about 20 were willing workers, the others openly loafing. Harvey Saunders, project director of the camp, said that about all the men have done this winter has been to cut their own firewood. Unless they refuse to work for 10 consecutive days they are not subject to federal prosecution, he said.

BOARD TO 'TYPE' WAR OBJECTORS IN U. S. IS URGED

Would Comb Ranks to Weed Out Fakers.

Washington, D. C., March 18 (AP).—Establishment of a board for classifying conscientious objectors was advocated today by Atty. Gen. Biddle.

Purpose of the board, he said in his annual report to congress, would be to divide the various types of objectors into groups and then assign them to "suitable and useful work."

Difficulties in carrying out conscientious objector legislation have arisen, he said, because the objectors vary from "artful dodgers" to persons who have genuine scruples against war, from "absolutists who object to all forms of conscription" to those who are willing to assist in the war effort so long as they are not required to kill.

Overseas Use Favored.

Biddle recommended also that certain types of objectors be permitted to volunteer for overseas relief work and that money paid the government by private employers of conscientious objectors be used as allotments to dependents.

The report said that "the largest numerical group in the objector category are the Jehovah's Witnesses, of whom about 3,000 have been convicted, constituting roughly three-fifths of all those convicted who professed some form of conscientious objection," and added:

"The special difficulty posed by this group is that they generally decline to accept a conscientious objector classification, maintaining that they are entitled to the absolute exemption accorded to ministers. This difficulty can hardly be resolved unless congress is willing either to alter the ordinary concept of ministers or to grant absolute exemption to conscientious objectors."

Citizenship Aid Asked.

The report also recommended:

1. Easing of educational requirements of certain persons over 50 years of age who are seeking naturalization and of other requirements pertaining to enemy aliens who have children in the military service of the United States. It suggested also that the citizenship law be eased for children born abroad when one parent is a citizen and the other is not.

2. The "crime of sabotage should be more comprehensively defined and should include conspiracies to commit the offense." Also that the offense of aiding an escaped prisoner of war be separated from that of treason and be made an offense in itself with suitable penalties.

3. Permit imposition of indeterminate prison sentences. This recommendation, made previously by Biddle, would authorize the study of a prisoner by a board of corrections before final sentence is imposed by a judge.

MORE STRIKERS TO GO BACK TO JOBS AT MOVIES

Hollywood, Cal., March 18 [Special].—A third member of the striking conference of studio unions, the screen story analysts, tonight voted to return to work in Hollywood's week old motion picture walkout. Two other members, the Screen Publishers guild and the Screen Office Employes guild, took similar action last night. Despite the three defections, Herbert K. Sorrell, president of the conference of studio unions, said the strike would continue. The strike resulted from a dispute over control of set decorators.

HOW THE LEAGUE DID NOT KEEP THE PEACE.

With a conference to convene next month to complete the draft of plans for another league of nations, the record of the first league will be studied anew. The outstanding fact is that the league failed to keep the peace of the world. It failed to check aggression anywhere. It did nothing to prevent the rearmament of Germany when that could have been done easily, and the French were willing to play a leading part in doing so. Nor did it do anything about the aggressions of Italy, Japan, or Russia. The wars in Europe and the Pacific are the best evidence of the league's futility.

The defenders of the other league have an answer for this. It is that the league was helpless because we weren't in it. They seem to forget that the United States coöperated time after time with the league and frequently was in the van of the league. When, for example, Russia attacked China in 1929 as a result of differences over the Chinese Eastern railway, it was the American government which took the leading part in bringing diplomatic pressure upon the belligerents. There is no evidence that our interference contributed anything to the restoration of peace, and for our pains we alone were rebuked by Moscow.

When Japan attacked China several years later, the American government again did not lag behind. Secretary of State Stimson thought he had sound reasons for believing that the league, and especially Great Britain and France, would back him up. These powers, like the United States, were members of a special league of nations formed by the nine power treaty in 1922, in which the nations bound themselves to respect the "sovereignty, independence, and integrity of China and uphold the principle of the open door." But the nine power league did nothing and the British foreign office issued a statement expressing confidence in Japan's good intentions about the open door.

A nine power treaty did not protect China any more than another treaty protected Belgium's neutrality in 1914. The weak deserve mercy, but too often get only pity. Unless we are willing to send our boys into war any place around the world, we can not insure every part of the world from aggression by major powers.

As long ago as 1921, Australia and New Zealand were apprehensive about Japan and doubtful of the ability of the British to defend them. The prime ministers of these two dominions at the imperial conference in 1921 pleaded for the renewal of the British alliance with Japan, feeling that they would be safer from attack by the Nip if they were his partners. The New Zealand prime minister recalled that when he was about to dispatch 10,000 troops to fight the Kaiser, he held back because his instincts told him there were German ships in nearby waters. Shortly afterwards a German squadron sank two powerful British warships—the Good Hope and the Monmouth. The admiralty was unable to supply a sufficient convoy protection, but the London government prevailed upon the Japanese to provide escorts for the transports. Having related this incident, Mr. Massey asked, "Supposing Japan had been on the other side?"

The alliance between Japan and Britain was broken and in its place was a new alliance in which two more partners, France and the United States, were included. We all agreed to settle our differences amicably and to restrict naval armaments. With the most powerful navy in the world, we agreed to sink parts of it, especially some splendid new battleships completed or partly completed. We agreed not to fortify Guam, the Philippines, Samoa, or the Aleutians. Japan agreed to limit its fleet to 60 per cent of our strength in capital ships. Adm. William Sims commented upon this as follows: "Now anybody can spit on the Philippines and you can't stop them." San Francisco must not repeat the mistakes of other conferences. We must keep our fleet and our complete control over its use.

THE STINSON CASE.

A jury in Washington has found that Mr. Jo Jo Stinson is of sound mind. A mental health commission had ordered him committed to an institution. He resisted the order in the federal court and, after an extended hearing in which his poetry was found to be no more eccentric and unintelligible than that of Mr. Archibald MacLeish of the state department, Mr. Stinson has been assured of his liberty.

Mr. Stinson seems to have had no great respect for the New Deal and many of its principal officials. Moreover his recent marriage to an elderly relative of Atty. Gen. Biddle aroused no enthusiasm in her family. It is a good guess that the jury came to the conclusion that Stinson was being railroaded by the New Dealers, and this is a conclusion that citizens generally will be inclined to share.

Certainly there is nothing in the record of the New Deal to suggest that it is above such practices. It has been ruthless in its persecution of those who have opposed it. It has used the vast power of prosecution in the attempt to punish its enemies and it has shown distinguished consideration to friends of the administration who deserved penitentiary sentences. Earl Browder went to jail when he was opposing American participation in the war and he was released when Stalin and Roosevelt again were on good terms.

There is no dirtier trick than to railroad a man to the insane asylum. Evidently the jury was persuaded that even this filthy tactic was not outside the New Deal's range.

SPARED BY THE BOMBERS.

Of all the manufacturing facilities in Cologne and its suburbs only two important plants seem to have escaped destruction. THE TRIBUNE'S correspondent, John Thompson, reports that nine-tenths or more of the factories in the region were smashed. The notable exceptions were the Ford factory which had been producing 1,800 military trucks a month, and the Courtauld works, which had been turning out textiles, including parachute cloth, also for the German army.

The Ford factory is American owned and Courtauld is a British corporation. Mr. Thompson notes that the two plants were conspicuous targets in the outskirts of the town. "They stand alone," says Mr. Thompson, "as conspicuous as the raisins in bread pudding."

Some day we shall know whether the immunity enjoyed by these factories was accidental or intentional. The suspicion that they were deliberately spared will be strengthened by the circumstance that almost the only other important structure in the whole region that suffered only slight damage was the cathedral. Our bombardiers were instructed not to attack it. They reduced the nearby business district to rubble and did great damage to the railroad yards only a few blocks away, but the cathedral still stands. The facts argue that our bombers can hit what they want to hit and miss what they want to miss.

The suspicion is strong, but it is still only a suspicion. The men who know the facts must be numbered in the hundreds, if not the thousands, for an instruction not to attack the Ford and Courtauld works would have had to be given to that many pilots and bombardiers. This is one of the minor mysteries of the war that sooner or later should be solved in published histories and memoirs.

ROOM FOR ALL.

On the same day that American infantry men fighting east of the Rhine were being handed illustrated booklets entitled "The Jap Soldier," a report from Toronto mentioned that with the arrival in Australia of a signal unit, "Canada now has nearly 1,000 men of all ranks in the Pacific area." Further news of the part being played by our allies in the Pacific was that royal navy fleet flyers from famous carriers had arrived at a naval air station "at a remote place on the Australian coast," and that Australian troops engaged in mopping up by-passed islands had made a landing on the north coast of Bougainville.

We do not know what genius in the war department is responsible for the notion that the morale of Americans with a first class war on their hands against Germany would be bucked up by literature hinting that the Japs are next on the agenda. The preface to the booklet stated that "every soldier who reads this book will agree that we must learn to kill Japs quickly and in large numbers." The British press has plaintively protested of late that the notable advances of the armies under Generals Hodges, Patton, and Simpson, and the dramatic seizure of the Remagen bridge, have tended to obscure Britain's role against the Germans. However that may be, some of the Americans east of the Rhine might feel that it would do no harm to give the British troops booklets entitled "The German Soldier."

The marine casualties at the conclusion of Iwo Jima were placed at 19,938, with 4,189 killed. Iwo Jima is only 750 miles from Toyko, and in that respect the marines who paid such a cost for their determined conquest were in much closer proximity to the enemy than the British carrier pilots landing "at a remote place on the Australian coast." So, we dare say, were the B-29 crews who dumped 2,500 tons of fire bombs to burn out 12 square miles of Kobe.

Francis Forde, the Australian army minister, has recently criticized a tendency in "some incompletely informed quarters" to minimize the present operations of Australian troops in the by-passed islands. These are Australian mandates and have previously been softened by American land and air operations and by our advance have been virtually cut off from supplies and reënforcements. No informed empire spokesman could reasonably suppose that there is any further duty requiring us to clean them up completely so that Australian civil administrators might move back in, as they did at Guadalcanal.

Mr. Forde was on more solid ground when he recalled that Australia had lost 22,519 prisoners to Japan in Malaya, Sumatra, and Java. "The liberation of those men alive," he said, "is one of the great motive powers behind Australia's war effort." Americans can understand that, for one of the great motive powers which carried our forces ahead was the obligation of liberating our troops captured on Bataan and Corregidor. Some of them are already free. The others will be freed before we are thru.

Australia's desire to expand its sphere of combat will be welcomed. There are plenty of Jap held lands and more than enough Japs for all. We would much rather hear expressions of impatience from allies that they are kept from the van by their activities in rear areas than the sort of talk recently advanced in the British house of commons, where Wing Comdr. Archibald W. James expressed the hope that the British army "will not be called upon to bear more than its fair share in relationship to the United States army in the Pacific war."

Another member, Frederick J. Bellenger, warned that it would be impossible to satisfy a large number of British troops that they were really needed for the fight against the Japs. They are war weary, he said, and anxious to get home to peace time jobs.

It would be interesting if Wing Comdr. James and Mr. Bellenger would step into the Remagen bridgehead long enough to tell that to the Americans who, no doubt, are curled up in a foxhole reading "The Jap Soldier." They might also try telling it to the marines who came to Iwo Jima via Bougainville, Guam, Tarawa, the Marshalls, Saipan, and Tinian. Our boys, who are doing the fighting on both the Rhine and Pacific fronts, might conceivably feel a trifle war weary themselves.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

LOST IN SHUFFLE.

Between Cologne and Bonn, but not on the Rhine, is a small town named Brühl that seems to have been lost in the bewildering shuffle of recent war news. Perhaps it has been mentioned for it certainly has been captured, but if so, we missed that line o' type. We are wondering about Brühl because it contains a masterpiece of Germany's rococo architecture, a style which has refreshed many tourists after exhausting prowls among the Gothic cathedrals. German rococo of the 18th century, often the work of French architects, is famous for its fancy stuff in design and decoration.

Brühl is three-starred among rococo exhibits because of a palace of an elector of Cologne, built in 1728. This prince-bishop, who ruled much of the present war zone along the Rhine, was Joseph Clemens, a patron of the arts with large and expensive ideas about places of residence. In addition to the country estate at Brühl, he built a palace at Bonn which became a university, and another at Poppelsdorf, nearby, which became a museum of natural history. Altogether, he seems to have been a boon to architects, sculptors, marble workers, stucco mixers, decorators, and contractors. Apparently he was trying to make the other electors, herzogs, and margraves of his time jealous.

The plans for the Brühl palace were drawn by a Parisian architect, Robert de Cotte, and then expanded and embellished by a German, Johann Balthasar Neumann, who felt that more magnificence was required. The reception hall and grand staircase, which are pure Neumann, have influenced movie palace architecture in the United States. They make an exuberant display of columns, sculpture, and delicate traceries of wall ornament. The stairway occupies the full height of the building, and leads to a festival hall of equal ostentation. Smaller rooms and apartments, also profusely decorated, open off this central tour de force.

This palace is regarded as the finest example of Rhenish rococo. No doubt the AMG experts on artistic and cultural monuments have already listed it as spared by the bombers.

MARTIAN MEMO: A. D. 2145.

Beg to report our stratoscopes did train
Four circlings of the sun on Sphere Thirteen,
Searching its myriad seas and lands in vain—
No signs of aught save jungle-life were seen.
Two-thousand-million-plus inhabitants
Recorded in our files appear self-banished;
Gaunt shapes of empty cities sear one's glance,
But of Mankind all evidence has vanished.
Our socio-logicians quite agree
The races that once dwelt there willed their doom
By mutual super-wars, till finally Extinction heaped them in one common tomb—
A tomb where wildly wailing space-winds are

RED CROSS NURSE.

From immemorial times the healing touch
Of woman's hands has eased man's bitter pain.
Her tender ministry has loosed the clutch
Despair has wrought, and let him hope again.
When broken men are back from battles brought,
She dresses wounds with sympathy innate
That tells the soldier why, indeed, he fought;
While women care, the cost is not too great.

Good Clara Barton's daughters are, each one;
They share the pains of those who bore the brunt,
And will until the final victory's won.
Devoted unknown soldiers are these girls;

You may be retained in service at the discretion of the army even tho you may not get insurance. If you had applied for insurance any time within the first 120 days of entering service it would not have been necessary to have passed a physical examination, even tho you were in the hospital during all or a part of the 120 days. If you are not found acceptable for insurance now by reason of physical conditions, see your organization commander and request a physical examination with a view to getting a disability discharge.

THE PEPTIC ULCER PROBLEM.

THE term "peptic ulcer" includes lesions in the stomach [gastric] and in the duodenum [duodenal]. Because of the peculiar anatomical formation of the duodenum this structure is attacked more frequently.

It is startling to realize that approximately 10 per cent of our entire population is or has been afflicted. Sometimes scars are found during X-ray examinations, altho the individual never knew that the disorder existed. This means that occasionally healing takes place spontaneously. More males than females are beset. If the disorder has a psychic foundation, as many authorities believe, the safety valve of tears, indulged in by the female of the species, may be valuable in warding off these lesions.

How does an ulcer begin? Something interferes with nutrition to the inflamed area. A blood vessel may become plugged or the resistance of the cells weakened. Later a thin, grayish membrane appears, dotted here and there with minute hemorrhages. As the outer cells of the mucous lining are swept away, a raw crater forms. Gradually this excavation increases in depth and the edges become inflamed. Thus the lesion, originally the size of a pinhead, may become as large as a half dollar.

In so-called silent ulcers there may be no symptoms or they may be so indefinite that hemorrhage or perforation is the first manifestation. As a rule, however, "indigestion" has been present for years. The most characteristic sign is the hunger pain, which appears from one to three hours after a meal and is relieved by taking food or alkalis. Diagnosis demands X-rays, fluoroscopic studies, and laboratory tests.

In mild cases the patient can continue his regular routine as he carries out the treatment. If moderately advanced, bed rest for about three weeks may be indicated. This can be followed by an equal period away from the humdrum of business. Thereafter the prescribed regime may be adhered to until recovery comes.

The initial attack usually responds faster than those to follow. Just because symptoms have disappeared does not mean that the ulcer has healed. This may take several months.

It should be understood that there is no cure-all. Management must be individual and, if repair is to be expected, the instructions of the physician in charge must be followed to the letter. In addition to diet, medication, and rest [physical and mental] consideration must be given to infection in the teeth, tonsils, sinuses, etc. Resistance must be kept at a high level. Alcohol, nicotine, and caffeine should be shunned, as these substances tend to increase gastric acidity, especially in potential or actual ulcer patients. Probably the most important factor is the development of a philosophy that will encourage hopefulness in a war weary world.

Post Unlimited.

Today will introduce to you unfortunates who do not subscribe to the Congressional Record the only poet in the United States who can relax as he rhymes, confident that no matter how prolix or prolific his output, it will find its way into print. This is Mr. Horace C. Carlisle of Troy, Ala., a gentleman singular among America's poets in that his verse is printed at the taxpayer's expense.

Mr. Carlisle is an employe of the capitol architect's office in Washington. A year ago that noble connoisseur of poetry, Sen. Bilbo of Mississippi [known at various times as The Man or Pastemaster General, the latter title covering a fine clip-and-paste job he was paid for] instigated a movement to make him poet laureate of congress. It failed, but he still is known as the "poet of the senate" for the reason that he is always writing verse and some senator is always reading it into the Record.

After careful study of Carlisle's works, this department reports with awe that he is no esoteric MacLeish. Every word he writes makes sense, and almost every word he writes makes a rhyme. An amazed critic once remarked that he "takes verse back to the simplicities of our forefathers," and this seems to be true. The homely beat of the farm dinner bell, the fireside meatiness of Edgar Guest, and the religious fervor of honest Billy Sunday, are mingled in the melodic sweep of his poems. No happening on the national scene is too trivial for his reverent rhyming, and no rhyme is too unusual for him to attempt. The death of Rep. Ditter might have stumped a lesser poet, but Carlisle wrote of it with sorrowful ease:

Ne'er has the nation known loss
more bitter
Than the death of Representative
William J. Ditter.

He also wrote a tender contribution to the WAVE recruiting program:

Methinks many a brave
That's escaped with his life
Will come home to his WAVE
And make her his wife.

And thru the long years
That are likely to come
Free from sorrow and tears
They will sing "Home Sweet Home."

Students of poetry contend Mr. Carlisle is restoring verse to its proper place on the American scene. Consider what he has done with the Gettysburg address. He was not satisfied with Mr. Lincoln's version. He rewrote it into nine eloquent, rhyming stanzas.

Nor is he always content with familiar songs. Not long ago he was so inspired by a speech of Rep. Rankin of Mississippi that he wrote new words to the tune of "Listen to the Mocking Bird." The chorus:

I'm a little mocking bird,
Yes, a little mocking bird,
Whose songs of inspiration catch the ear.
I'm a little mocking bird,
Yes, a little mocking bird,
Thrilling all the sunny Southland with my cheer.

Much of his effort, however, is devoted to eulogies of deceased members of congress. For a while he gave each deceased gentleman three eight line stanzas of neatly interwoven rhymes, but lately he has adopted the acrostic poetic style. Thus, in writing of the late Sen. Norris, the first letter of each line of the 24 line eulogy, reading down, could be tied together into "George Norris at home at last." One on the late Sen. Halsey read: "Edwin Halsey friend indeed," and one on the late Sen. Maloney said merely: "Senator Francis Maloney." To show you what we mean, we'll give you the final verse:

M-en come and go, but their influence still
A-fter them keeps keeping on keeping on,
L-iving in silent activity till
O-ften all that knew them are gone.
N-ever neglectful was he of a friend
E-ven on down to his untimely end—
Y-es, he was one on whom God could depend.

The other Carlisle of literature was Thomas, who spelled his name the old fashioned way, Carlyle. The two are not related.

THE MARINES HEAR ABOUT A PARTY.

SOMEWHERE IN THE PACIFIC, Feb. 28.—Here is a paragraph from a letter received recently, written by one of the thousands of employes at the Dodge Chicago plant, located in the southwest end of Chicago: "Sure wish you could have been here at the plant the day before Christmas. We celebrated, and what a celebration, liquor and more liquor—bottles kept popping up continuously. From the self-styled Romeos we have for bosses in this division down to the laborers, whisky was brought in, drunk and enjoyed the whole day long. I think everybody in this Rockwood division will remember the gala, loud, and drunken time we all had for many a year. Most of the girls working here are married whether they admit it or not and have husbands overseas, so the drinking was carried on after work in their apartments and homes. Usually these girls have moved from the neighborhood where they and their husbands were known, so all was well."

Some of us have wives working at this plant and a few of us have wives working right in that Rockwood division, much to our sorrow. All we can do is to ask that God, please, please take care of our little sons and of our little daughters whom we intrusted to these female rats. We can fight our yellow enemy out here because we can find and reach him as we do know who and what he is, but you who are our yellow, despicable, and treacherous enemies, who feel so safe and secure having the knowledge that we cannot reach you, we leave to God. May all his wrath, may all the damnation possible fall upon your filthy, unworthy souls. Now, to those who are truly our friends, carry on. We are proud of you and it's for you and all you stand for that we are fighting to keep and preserve. We know our TRIBUNE is the only possible chance for any voice back home, so don't let us down there. We will not let you down out here, ever.

A FEW CHICAGO MARINES.

PRIVATE OWNERSHIP, PUBLIC OPERATION.

Chicago, March 4. — Apropos Mayor Kelly's letter in your column on March 4, I would suggest investigation of the method by which the Community Traction company in Toledo, O., is being operated.

A commission employs a street railway commissioner who specifies the service. The owners of the railway are assured a certain return on a certain capitalization.

A fund called a stabilization fund was originally established by the railway owners. To this fund is added any excess in receipts over expenses. When this fund reached a certain figure it could be used to reduce fares or credited to the account of the city, for the purpose of acquiring control of the system.

A. SWARTZ.

ALUMINUM CARS.

Richmond, Va., March 12.—I greatly appreciate your interest and coöperation in displaying the first aluminum box cars ever built, which were designed by Reynolds Metals Railway division in Chicago.

Your vision and recognition are going to assist us tremendously in using the magic of aluminum in the rehabilitation of this war wrecked world. We have had favorable reaction thruout the nation.

R. S. REYNOLDS.

THE NURSE SHORTAGE.

Amboy, Ill., Feb. 20.—There was apparently no scarcity of nurses in World War I. Why should there be now? Here, are, I think, some of the reasons:

One nurse, who tried to join up, was turned down because she was overweight, altho she has been carrying on efficiently on her present job.

Then, the Red Cross refuses to take registered graduate nurses whose hospitals, during their period of training, had a daily average of less than 50 beds. Some of these nurses have specialized in the various fields of nursing, and have also had post-graduate or college work. Should not a nurse who has graduated, successfully passed her state board examination, and practiced in the state in which she is registered, be eligible for work in the army or navy without counting the beds in the hospital, or measuring her poundage?

LANGUAGE COURSES.

Chicago, March 13.—In this morning's TRIBUNE I notice that 19,097 pupils enrolled in high school Spanish groups. I have a daughter who, after having her first year of French, was unable to continue with her favorite language course because there were not enough pupils desiring French to warrant the continuation of French classes. She took Spanish.

At the time, about two years ago, I learned of the campaign to substitute Spanish. Students in their last year in grammar school were told, at the time for making up their new program for high school, that they could take Latin or Spanish. No French would be given.

FRENCHY.

LIKES RESTFUL PAINTINGS.

Chicago, March 1.—Words simply cannot convey the gratitude I feel to the Art institute for the current exhibits there. To see such magnificent beauty as that to be found in the Hudson river landscapes and in Mrs. Thorne's miniature rooms makes one realize what a great privilege it is to live in Chicago.

As one who is weary of trying to understand some of the modernistic horrors of painting, and who experiences a sense of deep peace from landscapes, I hope we may have more such landscapes regularly exhibited.

MRS. G. L. BROWN.

HE'S STILL SOLD ON DEWEY.

Chicago, March 13.—I just called your paper to be sure you meant to include Gov. Dewey in your front page cartoon [of the Dumbarton Oaks Chorus]. As an ardent supporter of most of your policies I think you have stooped to a new low to include Gov. Dewey's picture with these others. I feel you owe an apology to the governor as well as to the Republican party.

WIFE'S DEBTS.

Peoria, Ill., March 15.—1. Is a man responsible for his wife's debts, even [2] after he has placed an advertisment in the paper, as follows: "From this date on I am not responsible for any one's debts except my own." ? E. E.

1. Yes, as to necessaries; no, as to her business debts.
2. This would not cut off your liability for necessaries. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

NOTE—From time to time, in this paper, there will appear an article which we hope will be of interest to our fellow Americans. This is number eighty-four of a series.

Correction

We have on our desk today, here at Schenley, several articles which have recently appeared in Middle West newspapers. In two of these articles, which appeared in two rather widely separated cities, the writer tells his readers, in substance, that they must now re-educate their tastes; that they are now drinking "wartime whiskey"; that it is almost impossible to find their favorite pre-war brands. In the articles mentioned, the reader is told that he must now drink blended whiskies. What are the facts?

Well, the facts prove that by actual preference, blended whiskies increased in popularity uninterruptedly for eight years prior to the war. Consumers increasingly showed their preference for this lighter form of alcoholic beverage. In fact, the figures very definitely prove that the leading selling brands in nearly every one of our most populous states, before the war, were blends.

Well, that's very interesting and yet is merely history repeating itself because even before Prohibition about 70% of the whiskey consumed in the United States was blended whiskey.

So it seems that it is really not necessary for the American consumer to change his drinking habits and the majority can go right on partaking of the type of whiskey they have long preferred. And they can be assured, too, that the blended whiskies they are getting today, are not "wartime whiskies." They are exactly the same fine aged and mellowed American straight whiskies which were made in peacetime—blended with American grain neutral spirits. These are light whiskies and are definitely in tune with these modern times.

IGOE MAY GIVE TRANSIT VIEWS TO LEGISLATURE

Judge Will Be Invited to Springfield Hearing.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 18.—Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe will be invited to appear before the legislature to give his views on the Kelly-Green bills for a Chicago metropolitan transit system under public ownership, it was learned today.

With Mayor Kelly and Gov. Green both supporting the public ownership plan, Judge Igoe's attitude is considered the keystone of the situation. He controls the street car and elevated lines because they have been in receivership in his court.

Sen. Miller [R., Hillsboro] disclosed today that Sen. Knox [R., Chicago], chairman of the senate public utilities committee, will invite Judge Igoe to come to Springfield. Sen. Miller was the chief questioner of witnesses at the senate traction hearings last week.

Cites Judge's Knowledge.

"Judge Igoe is better equipped than any other man in Illinois to help the legislature examine the new traction bills," Miller said.

Some of the questions Miller said might be asked of Igoe are:

1. What are your recommendations as to the solution of the problem?
2. Do you believe that adequate transportation can be furnished under private ownership?
3. What in your opinion should the legislature do about the Kelly-Green bills, in view of the pending trustees' plan?

Will Ask About Objections.

4. What objections, if any, do you have to the Kelly-Green plan?
5. What would the situation be if the city franchise ordinance lapsed May 1?
6. When will the $6,600,000 worth of new equipment authorized for purchase by the court on Friday be delivered?

Mayor Kelly appeared in person before both senate and house to make appeals for the public ownership plan. Gov. Green chose as his spokesmen State Revenue Director Collins and Werner W. Schroeder, Republican national committeeman for Illinois. Kelly is Democratic national committeeman for Illinois.

RECTOR TO TELL SECRETS OF HIS CULINARY ART

George Rector, the well known chef, is going to disclose a few of his culinary secrets at 8 p. m. tomorrow when he speaks at the special dinner meeting of the Chicago Restaurant Purveyors' association in the La Salle hotel.

Contrary to a common belief, George Rector was not born in France, altho he studied there as an apprentice. He was born at Wabash and Harrison streets in Chicago and was the son of Charles Rector who operated a restaurant in a basement at Clark and Monroe sts. for 22 years and later a restaurant at 44th and Broadway in New York City.

Marion Isbell, president of the Chicago Restaurant association and head of the metropolitan office of price administration, will discuss the joint problems of purveyors and restaurant operators at tomorrow's meeting. More than 500 are expected to attend.

Negro Tank Destroyer Commander Wins DSC

Washington, D. C., March 18 (AP).—Award of the distinguished service cross to Capt. Charles L. Thomas, 24, Negro commander of a tank destroyer company in France, was announced today by the war department. Thomas, from Detroit, Mich., earned the decoration for valor during an attack on a strong German position at Climbach, France, last December.

RAIN QUENCHES OZARKS FIRES.

Jefferson City, Mo., March 18 (AP).—Showers falling across the Ozarks today quenched hundreds of forest fires which threatened hill villages and communications lines while burning out an estimated 20,000 to 25,000 acres of oak timber. State fire crews knocked out seven of the largest fires last night and today before the rain ended their 48 consecutive hours of flame battling.

Enjoys Weather

March, the month of many weathers, yesterday gave Chicagoans a taste of May and they took advantage of it to open up spring activities.

At 3:15 p. m. the temperature was 72.8 degrees and the mean was expected to be about 56—which is the seasonal average for May 15. Under the influence of the clear skies and balmy breezes, war gardeners began turning the soil and staking out rows in their plots. Some even planted radishes, lettuce, and other hardy crops.

Park baseball diamonds were in use, fishermen appeared along the lake front, and Joseph Brown, 2511 N. Campbell av., took a dip in the lake at North av. beach. The water was plenty cold, he said. Scullers brought their craft to park lagoons for practice and the bridle paths were crowded.

To his prediction that the mild weather will continue for several days, Weatherman H. S. Kenny coupled a warning. On only two days since March 1 has the temperature fallen below normal. On the others it has been much above normal, with a high of 30 degrees above normal on March 16. The reckoning may be around the corner, Kenny said.

WAR STRIPS U. S. OF SCIENTISTS, VAN PELT WARNS

Columbus, O., March 18 [Special].—Dr. J. R. Van Pelt, until recently technical director of the museum of science and industry in Chicago, said here yesterday that the United States faces the prospect of dropping 10 years behind European countries in the supply of men trained in scientific research after the war.

Dr. Van Pelt, who will head an educational program at Battelle memorial institute here designed to provide returning service men with scientific training, said England, Russia, Germany, and France have kept a supply of research men in universities as industrial progress insurance. The United States, he asserted, has drawn its research students into the military forces and left our reservoir of basic knowledge dangerously low.

The Battelle institute is an organization serving such fields as metallurgy, fuels, physics, chemistry, and ceramics.

BRAZIL PAPERS ASK EXTENSION OF FREE PRESS

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, March 18 (AP).—Newspapers opposed to the administration of President Vargas are campaigning for abolition of censorship thruout the country, asserting that Brazil's newly won press freedom still is limited principally to the Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo areas.

Dispatches from the states of Sergipe, Alagoas, and Pernambuco report that papers there have been closed by state branches of the national department of press and propaganda, which since 1937 has exercised tight control over the press.

There has been complete freedom of expression in Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo newspapers since Feb. 22, when the cabinet recommended that Vargas call elections and the press was told it was free to "criticize" as it saw fit.

ECONOMIST SAYS BRITISH GIVE UP POWER BALANCE

Washington, D. C., March 18 (AP).—Recognizing Russia's new power in eastern Europe, Britain "appears to be abandoning its older concept of the balance of power" on the continent, the Foreign Policy association said today.

Grant S. McClellan, research economist for the association, said "Britain is intent on insuring its security by the most realistic methods." The 20 year alliance with Russia is cited as an illustration of the British shift.

This accommodation to Russian influence in Europe, McClellan continued, "does not hold true in the far east. While recognizing that the war has revealed British dependence on United States power in this [oriental] area, Britain may be expected to pursue the balance of power concept in Asia with respect both to the United States and Russia. In the near east Britain also is faced with the fact the American and Russian power will inevitably extend into what has been heretofore a sphere of special British interest."

G. O. P. TO STUDY ITS CHOICE FOR JUDGES TODAY

Green's Word Expected to Determine Ticket.

The Republican county convention called to make its choices for two places on the coalition judicial ticket to be offered the voters June 4 will be held this afternoon in the La Salle hotel. Democrats will meet Thursday to pick three candidates.

One of the two vacancies allotted the Republicans is regarded as certain to go to Elmer J. Schnackenberg, former speaker of the house in the state assembly. The other appears to be wide open, with virtually every committeeman ready with a candidate of his own, but there are indications that Gov. Green's word will be decisive.

Third G. O. P. Place Filled.

A third Republican spot, the Circuit court seat vacated by Judge Daniel P. Trude's resignation a month ago, has been filled by the governor's appointment of Leonard C. Reid. Reid is now considered a sitting judge and automatically on the fusion ticket with seven other Republicans and 10 Democrats. Existing vacancies are two in Circuit and three in Superior court.

Because of the large number of entries expected, the Republicans plan to submit them to a subcommittee. A resolution to create this committee has been prepared by Committeeman Sinon A. Murray [22d], who said it would provide for not fewer than five members and would allow for as much as two weeks' time for considering the candidates. When this report is ready, the convention will meet to take action.

Plan Township Caucus.

Township committeemen, who believe that their territory is entitled to representation on the ticket, will hold a caucus at noon today in the Bismarck hotel.

The Democrats are believed to be fairly well settled on their three candidates. Mayor Kelly, who is county chairman, is reported to have approved former State's Atty. Courtney, Charles E. Byrne, and John M. Tuohy and there has been little talk of any others.

CHANGE 116,241 ADDRESSES ON COUNTY TAXES

One of the headaches of his office, County Treasurer Schlaeger said yesterday, is the property owner who sells out and neglects to tell the treasurer. This omission, the treasurer said, results in tax bills being improperly mailed, returned to his office, and held there for lack of a correct address until the penalty date has passed. Between July 1, 1944, and last March 1, a total of 116,241 tax bills for 1944 have had changes of name and address, most of them because of property sales, the treasurer said. Penalty date this year is May 1.

BARES NARROW ESCAPE OF 2,000 IN LUZON CAMP

Had it not been for the well timed and organized rescue on Feb. 24 by Gen. MacArthur's forces, more than 2,000 prisoners in Los Banos camp, about 45 miles from Manila, P. I., and 20 miles behind Japanese lines, would have been killed by their guards within a few hours. Frank J. Rider, 44, a former Chicagoan, described this brush with death in a letter received Saturday by his fiancee, Miss Claire Vernon of 153 E. Ontario st.

Miss Claire Vernon.

Frank J. Rider.

In the letter, his first to her since his imprisonment in January, 1942, and written on liberation day, Rider said: "I never fully appreciated the meaning of 'life and liberty.' One day more and we would have been massacred. The Japs gave us virtually no food during the week preceding our rescue, and told us to face starvation gracefully. Then they informed us we were to be killed." Word of the imminent fate of the internees probably was carried to MacArthur by Filipino guerrillas Rider said.

As soon as her fiance, who was Philippines district manager of the Carrier corporation, manufacturer of air conditioning equipment, arrives in Chicago they will be married, Miss Vernon said. She already has ordered champagne for the wedding party.

AROUND THE WORLD A THOUSAND TIMES!

● Shortly after the first of this year, Burlington's fleet of fourteen diesel-powered, stainless steel Zephyrs attained an unprecedented total in train miles of service—25,000,000!

In rolling up the equivalent of a thousand times around the world, the Zephyrs have proved many things. Their tremendous patronage has shown the public's enthusiastic endorsement of speedy, luxurious, streamlined trains. Their almost unbelievable record of availability and "on-time" performance, in the face of high speed schedules, has established the might of diesel power. Their beauty and stamina are a tribute to the design and structural strength of these fast trains. (The Pioneer Zephyr, first of the Zephyr fleet and America's first diesel-powered streamline train, has nearly 2,000,000 miles to its credit and has already started on its second ten years of service.)

Yes, America has given the nod of approval to the Zephyrs and the kind of travel they typify. So there will be more of them in the days ahead. They will be even more efficient, even more luxurious. For improvement is the mandate of progress.

Garden Show to Steal March on Springtime

BY JUDITH CASS.

SPRING, which is not due officially until 6:38 p. m. tomorrow, will arrive a day early at Marshall Field & Co., where the Garden Club of Illinois will open its 19th exhibition of gardens and flowers today. For the third consecutive year planted gardens, still life pictures, table settings, terrariums, and window boxes have been arranged on the second floor of the store, where they may be viewed by the public thru March 31.

Garden club members will conduct tours of the exhibits at 10 a. m. and at 1, 3, and 4 p. m. each day and will be in charge of an information desk, under the direction of the club's social chairman, Mrs. Kenath Sponsel. Free lectures will be given at 11 a. m. and 2 p. m. each day with the exception of Good Friday and the two Saturdays. To open the lecture schedule, Mrs. Ralph Rosher will speak on "Flowers in War Time" and Mrs. Edward P. Brooks on "How the Garden Club Serves," at 11 a. m. today, and an afternoon talk on "Lilies" will be given by Miss Merle Rasmussen.

The show precedes by a month "National Garden Week," April 15 thru 22, which has been set aside as a tribute to the late J. Sterling Morton, to whom we owe Arbor day. Mr. Morton's birthday anniversary falls on April 22. It was at his lovely estate, Thornhill farm, that the club held its 1942 flower show after Navy pier had been taken over as a training center.

Engagements Announced.

Yesterday in Kansas City, Mo., Edwin Paul Helmers announced the engagement of his daughter, Janet Anne, to Capt. William Moody Bersbach of the army air forces, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer S. Bersbach of Evanston. Miss Helmers attended Skidmore college and now is a volunteer worker in the Red Cross blood bank of Kansas City.

Capt. Bersbach, a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry Moody of Evanston, attended Spring Hill college in Mobile, Ala., and the University of Illinois. He holds the air medal with one silver and three bronze oak leaf clusters and an army unit citation, having completed 55 missions over Africa, Sicily, and Italy, and now is assigned to the flight service center in Kansas City. He has two brothers — Pvt. James Moody Bersbach, stationed with the army airways communication system in the South Pacific, and Pvt. Edward Hines Bersbach, who is with a general hospital unit in England.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tomlin Goodman of Bronxville, N. Y., formerly of Winnetka, announce the engagement of their daughter, Julie, to Lt. Emmett John Fallon Jr. of the marines, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fallon of San Francisco, Cal., also formerly of Winnetka. Miss Goodman was graduated from the North Shore Country Day school, Pine Manor Junior college, and the Katharine Gibbs school in New York. Lt. Fallon was graduated from the Country Day school and the Choate school and attended Dartmouth college. He received his commission recently in Quantico, Va.

From Washington, D. C., comes word of the engagement of Miss Jeanne Gifford Dante, daughter of Mrs. Irma C. Bartley of that city, to Corp. Henry Dudley Lytton of the army air forces, son of Mrs. L. Ware Lynch of New York and Wild Acres, Vineyard Haven, Mass., and of Walter Lytton of Chicago. Corp. Lytton, who is in Italy, is a grandson of Henry C. Lytton and of the late John Herbert Ware, both of Chicago.

Crowd Stays Late to Enjoy Casino Affair

BY HARRIETT PRIBBLE.

Four-leafed clovers and "the luck of the Irish" may have had a share in the overwhelming success of the St. Patrick's day cocktail party which the board of the Margaret Etter creche gave Saturday in the Casino, but it was the teamwork of the benefit committee which got the party off to an early start and kept the smart little club packed to the walls until far past the usual closing hour for late afternoon events.

The exact sum raised by the party will not be known until the committee meets at 10:30 a. m. today in the nursery at 2116 Chicago av. which it supports, but the proceeds are expected to far surpass those of last year's party [$6,400].

At 7 p. m. dancing was interrupted by a brief fashion show, which included several costumes of 1885, the year in which the nursery was founded. Those whose vantage points in the crush of guests would not permit them a view of the "floor show" contented themselves with their own informal fashion parade, comparing the striking bonnets worn to the party. These included Mrs. Charles Borland's swirl of white aigrettes centered with a knot of ruby roses: Mrs. Charles D. Peacock III.'s high white straw bandbox, open crowned and veiled in white, with a double cockade of clipped ostrich plumes, and Miss Mary Mertes' oversized crownless cartwheel of Dublin green straw, with a row of white daisies just above her forehead.

Veloz and Yolanda Grow Reminiscent and Hofmann Puts 'Moonlight' in Sonata

I do get to the oddest places. Take the opera house last night. As far as I could tell, it was sold out to the rafters for Veloz and Yolanda and their vaudeville show, and those rafters fairly shook with the applause of an audience that loved everything—the stars, the rackety two pianos, the accordion player with personality, the girl who sang in the microphone, and the muscular one who did what I can only call toe dancing with expression. Now hundreds, maybe thousands of people loved it, which was fine, and when it was over all they had to do was go home. But I didn't love it at all, and see what happens. I have to write about it.

A dozen or so years ago when Veloz and Yolanda were the rage of the Empire Room, I recklessly wrote, "What they have is fragile. It can't last. But it will never be forgotten." For my money it didn't last, and the trouble is I haven't forgotten. I still remember those two at their peak, when their dances were new and fresh and they were gossamer in the waltz, thistledown in mischief, a streak of curving flame in the cobra tango. They are still doing the same dances, only not so well. A heaviness, both of body and mood, has crept in, and for me the spell is broken. If they were strangers I might not mind. But I remember the real Veloz and Yolanda, and to me last night's performers were imposters in dancing shoes they couldn't fill.

You never know, at a Josef Hofmann recital nowadays, whether he is going to take you on a revealing journey or let you admire him fitfully as he rides by on the warhorses of the piano. Yesterday at Orchestra hall he rode far more than I did, but I went right along with the Sonata quasi una Fantasia, tagged "Moonlight" so many years ago by a reckless critic [Rellstab], who said it reminded him of Lake Lucerne, which Beethoven never saw.

Most contemporary pianists make an arrant romanticist out of Mr. Rellstab by failing to convey either the weather report or the locale, but with Hofmann, as with Paderewski before him, the nickname makes sense. As he played the sonata yesterday the opening movement took on mystery, an enveloping softness, and a gentle glimmer that might have been a number of lovely things, including moonlight—on Lake Michigan or Lake Lucerne.

Otherwise, Mr. Hofmann played some Chopin brushed with an elfin brilliance, Handel's "Harmonious Blacksmith," Mendelssohn's Scherzo in E minor, and Schumann's "Carnival Scenes in Old Vienna," which declined to come to life despite the skill, occasionally amounting to virtuosity, of its performance.

Sally Relates a Community House's Needs

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

A community house on the near north side, whose hospitable doors have been open for many years to whole families in the overcrowded vicinity, has appealed for aid in obtaining articles which its slim budget, already stretched to the utmost by increasing demands, cannot provide. Here foreign born parents and their children are taught to understand and respect our laws and to learn our language. Group classes also are held in music, arts, and crafts, and sports for young and old alike, and children of all ages from pre-school thru teen-age, find an outlet for their energies. The program, however, is hampered by the lack of a portable phonograph and a folding pingpong table, both of which easily could be carried from one room to another.

A recent offer of men's shoes, size 6½B, may help solve the shoe rationing problem for a few who wear that small size but cannot afford to purchase them. The gift includes summer dress, brown, and black shoes, which were made to order for the original wearer. Please do not telephone, as only written requests will be considered. The letters will be forwarded to Mrs. X for selection, and the recipients will be notified.

Jazz Talk Sets Blue-Blooded Toes Tapping

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

Planned to interest young people in Poetry magazine, S. I. Hayakawa's talk on "Reflections on the History of Jazz" on Saturday in the Arts club attracted a large share of prominent Chicagoans whose musical tastes usually are most conservative. The lecture was illustrated with plenty of jazz, blues, both early and "high society" style, and hot boogie-woogie, ending with the Richard M. Jones trio's playing of Mr. Jones' own composition, "Jazz Me Baby Blues," which really "sent" the solid audience which packed the living room.

Sounds bordering on Frank Sinatra swoon-screams were heard rising from a group seated right, center, as the trio played, and seated right there, looking momentarily as rapt as any bobby sox fans, were Mrs. Telfer MacArthur, chairman of the woman's committee of the Chicago Symphony orchestra; Mrs. Alden B. Swift, Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, Mrs. William B. Hale, Miss Eunice Hale, and John Palmer.

Miss Edith Wyatt did not miss a stitch as her knitting needles clickclacked during the performance, but her companion put knitting chores aside. One youngish man managed to catch 40 winks, but the others, young and old, were smiling and unconsciously, tapping their feet. In front row seats were William S. Monroe, whose sister, the late Harriet Monroe, founded the magazine; Mrs. William J. Calhoun, Mrs. Tracy Lay Turner, Mrs. Turner Jr., Mrs. R. Neil Cowham, Mrs. George A. Kelly, Mrs. Edward A. Leight, the William O. Hunts, and Mrs. Otto Madlener. The youngest hep-cats included Julie Ann Bowe, Janie Evans, Marianne [Peanuts] McDonald, Sharon Lannan, Bob Radcliffe, Claes Oldenberg, and Dan Whedon.

"Soldiers in jam sessions are educating people everywhere in jazz," said Mr. Hayakawa, who is professor of English at the Illinois Institute of Technology. "Jazz is the cultural ambassador to common people all over the world," he said, "and the rolling left hand which rocked the plaster off the walls at south side 'rent parties' will rock a fellowship of 'alligators' everywhere."

Jazz originated in and around New Orleans, combining Negro folk music with dance rhythms from Africa and later incorporating elements of Scotch and English ballads with hymns, Mr. Hayakawa said. In 1917, the jazz music center moved to Chicago, with 35th and State sts. as its hub, and grew and matured at "rent parties" on the south side, where musicians "educated in a tough and realistic school of the piano" played for free food and drinks.

Jimmy Yancey, Negro grounds keeper for White Sox park, and his wife illustrated piano and blues singing of the rent party type. Tut Soper, pianist, and Elizabeth Jeffries also appeared on the program. Rudolph Ganz introduced the speaker.

Draper-Adler Team Clicks, as Usual; Able Guitarist Plays

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

Harmonica and guitar playing, plus tap dancing, lent novelty to the usually circumscribed program of a music critic's Sunday afternoon. Larry Adler made his harmonica do things no mouth organ ever did before, and Paul Draper tap danced with unique fastidiousness before as many people as could crowd into the Civic Opera house. And at Kimball hall a young American, Richard S. Pick, made a bold start to follow in the footsteps of the great Segovia by playing an entire program of serious music on the guitar.

Adler and Draper bring little that is new to their programs as the seasons pass, but, on the other hand, why should they?—having discovered a formula that is entertaining, different, and popular. Larry Adler is a remarkable artist and an extraordinary harmonica virtuoso. But the line between his serious interpretations and his popular fooling has become tenuous and often a bit dubious.

A darkened house and mysterious lighting effects on the stage may induce the proper mood in which to listen to "Nigun" from Bloch's "Baal Shem" suite, but the excessive vibrato, the slithery glissandi, and the "wah-wah" effects of a jazz trumpet were certainly never in the composer's calculations. Yet a more precise and immaculate bit of styling, as they say in the night clubs, could hardly be imagined than Adler's way with the Gavotte from Bach's sixth violin sonata. As for Saint-Saens' "Rondo Capriccioso," to play this test of violin virtuosity at all on an instrument dependent on human breath is nearly incredible; to play it at a speed which would have appalled even Heifetz, with technical figures scrambled and blurred, is something for which a musician of Mr. Adler's attainments may well be reproached.

Mr. Draper has elevated the lowly tap dance from the bowery to the ballet. More ballet than tap were the dancer's interpretations of a Beethoven "Bagatelle" and the somber "Dies Irae" Intermezzo in E-flat minor of Brahms. Yet neither of these approached the freedom or imagination of the "dance without music," a procedure so successful it is heartily recommended to those numerous dancers insistent upon dancing to musical masterpieces never intended to be danced.

While not yet a Segovia, Richard S. Pick proved himself a serious musician and an expert guitarist. A brace of Bach pieces was clean cut and delicately modeled, while a Theme and Variations by Mozart-Sor sparkled with a variety of technical devices and subtle color effects.

Opera was again on the boards at the Eighth Street theater last night, with "Cavalleria Rusticana" and a so-called streamlined version of "The Barber of Seville" sung by members of the Chicago Concert and Opera guild. Vittorio Trevisan and Stefan Kozakevich were scheduled as guest artists for "The Barber."

"Cavalleria" was not ludicrously bad nor yet particularly good. As a whole it had been prepared with some regard for ensemble—including a small but lusty chorus—and its principal roles were sung by promising voices rather than by good singers. Most promising of the voices was that of the tenor, Carl Chevedden, which at moments had substance, ring and impact, even tho its owner is innocent of all except the most rudimentary operatic knowledge. The soprano of pretty Jeanne Grant, the Santuzza, had its moments too, tho the greater part of the time Miss Grant had no more idea what to do with her voice than with her hands.

John Barich, the Alfio, looked like the original tough guy of opera, and his singing was tough, too. Margaret Harrington and Lola Levy outlined the parts of Lola and Mama Lucia, and Silvio Insana conducted with apologetic intelligence.

JOURNEY UNDERGROUND

(Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune.)

By Flight Officer David G. Prosser

INSTALMENT XX.

SYNOPSIS: The author enlisted in the Canadian air force in 1941, at the age of 20, and became a navigator. In 1943 he transferred to the American air force. On his ninth combat mission his Flying Fortress was shot down over France, and the crew bailed out. Prosser landed alone in a field, seriously injuring his ankle. A French family hid him in their attic for 13 days, until he was able to walk, then helped him go by railroad to Nevers, 135 miles south of Paris. In Nevers he got in touch with the township director of public works, who worked with the underground movement. The director turned him over to Raymond who hid Prosser in his home for a week. Then the director, called "Monsieur" by the author, came to call for him in an automobile.

As we climbed into the car, Monsieur explained the situation to me. We were going into the country, where they hoped to find some people who would take me for a few days. First we were going to stop at a garage, where I was to get into another car. "As you do this, don't say a word, for altho you speak good French—l'accent, alors, some one passing by might hear you."

We soon arrived at the little garage. There was a small truck waiting for me. The driver was a tall man with a very cheerful, good humored face, and as I climbed into his truck, he said in English, "How are you?"

Remembering what Monsieur had said about speaking French in the street, I was quite taken aback at hearing English, so I replied in French.

Raymond started off in his car, and we followed close behind. The man sitting next to me talked English as much as possible. He stumbled thru phrase after phrase, waiting for me to correct him when he came to the end.

We drove over the bridge which I had started to cross on my first day in Nevers, and after we went a little way into the country, Raymond parked his car and both he and Monsieur climbed into the back of the truck.

When we started again, the driver told me we were very near the line of demarcation.

Eventually, we pulled up in front of a pink stucco house which looked very new. Raymond and Monsieur had hopped out, and the driver joined them, telling me as he closed the door, "You stay here. We are going to try this house."

I waited for 10 minutes, when Monsieur came out to say, "It is all right. They are willing to take you for the week-end, but no longer, because they cannot trust their maid. They think she is quite safe, but still, they are not sure. They want me to tell you not to open your mouth in front of her, and to stay out of the kitchen when she is in it."

When I went in, I was greeted by a vivacious, pleasant, chic woman, whom I presumed was the mistress of the house. She told us that M. Martain was coming in just a minute, and that we should be seated. We were in the kitchen; I had been in France long enough to realize that the kitchen is in most homes, a reception room, too. This one was large and airy and furnished with all the latest equipment. The stove, sink, and refrigerator were all of modern design, and the table and chairs were all very new.

While we waited, Madame talked nervously to Raymond and Monsieur, and the driver and I struggled along with a little French-English conversation. This was soon interrupted by the arrival of M. Martain.

The head of the house was a very tall, heavily built man, with a small, ruddy face. He wore a business suit and white shirt, but his clothes were dirty and wrinkled, and he did not have a necktie. After he greeted every one, he told his wife to get a bottle of wine, and when all our glasses had been filled, he asked Monsieur to give a toast.

Monsieur stood up, and lifting his glass, said, "A la Victoire."

I offered every one a cigaret. M. Martain refused, and Raymond said, "You'd better take one. They are American, and a real treat."

After lighting the cigarets, Madame took part in the conversation.

"This is all too amazing," she said. "When we used to hear the British aircraft going over the house on their way to Italy, I always said to M. Martain, 'if any of those aviators come down around here, I should certainly take him in our house.' Now we have the chance, and I can hardly believe it."

We all laughed, and soon the men prepared to leave. M. Martain showed them out, and as Monsieur left, he said to me, "Don't worry any more. You will be perfectly safe here. We shall come for you either Sunday night or Monday."

When they had gone, Madame said, "I think it will be best if you go into the office until dinner time."

Madame had not shut the door tightly when she left the room, and after a short time I saw a very ordinary looking girl with long wispy hair walk by. She stopped at the door and mumbled, "Bon jour." I was sure she was the maid to whom I was not to speak, but there seemed to be nothing to do but mumble in reply, "Bon jour," and pretend to be working diligently over my books.

In another half hour, another girl appeared. Altho she was wearing an unpleasant black, shroud-like dress, she did not look like a maid. She entered the office, curtsied, and said, "Bon jour." She seemed to be very pleasant and charming and had a delightful air of simplicity about her, but it was easy to see she was no country girl. Still feeling a little uncertain about her, I said in my best French, "You are not the maid, are you?"

"O, no, Monsieur, I am the daughter of the family," she replied.

She had a beautiful, well modulated voice, to which I enjoyed listening. I asked if she had always lived in Nevers.

"No. We have been here since 1941, but I hope next year to return to Paris to study at the university."

When she left, I turned back to my books, but within a short time was interrupted again. This time my visitor was a small boy of about 12. He was quite a handsome child, with blond hair and blue eyes. He popped into the room, full of life and conversation. At first I was uncertain as to what to say to him, for altho I imagined he was the son of the family, I did not know if Mme. and M. Martain were trying to keep my identity from him. I quickly discovered he knew everything about me, and wanted to find out much more. What aircraft did I fly? How, when, and where was I shot down? He became a little impatient with my slow and awkward French, and began telling me about German aircraft that had fallen near-by, but he rushed thru his stories at such a high rate of speed that I could only pick up a few words now and then.

Madame called us to the dinner table. The dining room was decorated a la moderne. Against two of the walls stood large, streamlined, dark wooden sideboards with chromium fixtures, but above them hung pictures more in the style of the 90s than the 1940s. The table gave one the same impression of heaviness as the sideboards. It was streamlined as much as a table can be. The chairs had no style; they were merely new and comfortable.

The dinner was magnificent. We started with an excellent cream soup, followed by huge steaks. Two large bottles of fine wine stood on the table. We finished with cake, delicious cream cheese, fruit, and with our coffee had peach brandy. I had not tasted such fine food since my visit to Eire a year before, and each time Madame insisted that I have a "little" more steak or cheese or cake, I was unable to resist. There was no reason to refuse, for in this house there appeared to be no limit to the food supplies.

M. Martain had two good radios on which he could hear both London and Africa perfectly, so he did not have so many questions to ask about the war as most of the French I met.

He told me what the people of that part of France thought about the politics of liberation.

"We would much prefer to be liberated by the Americans than the British," he said.

This remark surprised me greatly, but when I asked why people felt this way, he merely shrugged his shoulders and said, "That is the way it is."

We dwelt only a short time on the military and political aspects of the war, and soon passed to the personal side of it. Just after the armistice in 1941, there were many Germans billeted in the neighborhood, and several stayed at the Martain's house.

"They were very correct in most ways," M. Martain said. "They ate at the table with us, and all of them could speak perfect French."

Toward the end of the evening, Monsieur told me a little of himself. He was a cattle dealer, and before the war worked in Paris, but moved to the country for the duration. He said he thought he would go back to the capital after the war, but he feared conditions there would be very chaotic. "I think there will be a lot of trouble in France after the war—perhaps Communism. I greatly fear the Russian menace. France will be weak for a long time after this war, and can never attain the place she held before 1939."

About 11 o'clock Mme. Martain interrupted us to say that it was Monsieur's bed time, as he had a particularly hard day ahead of him.

She led me to my bedroom at the back of the house. It was comfortably but tastelessly decorated, and judging from the dressing table covered with drapes and frills, it was a woman's room. I was next shown a sumptuous bathroom, all done in pink porcelain. When I saw a bath tub my heart leaped, but soon sank again as Madame told me there was no hot water.

I returned to my room to climb into the very soft double bed for a good night's sleep.

Thru the Looking Glass

Does your complexion measure up to that new outfit you're getting ready for spring, or is it clinging to its gray, winter time look? If it hasn't all the clarity and freshness it needs to stand up against a perky new chapeau or looks dingy in contrast to the bright color of a new suit, then it's time to start taking corrective measures.

The woman with dry and sensitive skin has to be careful about tackling the problem with too much vigor or she'll wind up with a face that looks and feels like it's been left out in the wind and rain. What she needs is something that gently clears the skin of blackheads and cloudiness without draining it of the little natural oil it possesses.

One of the finest preparations we can recommend for this purpose is an oil and meal lotion. It's a rather odd looking concoction and is used in a somewhat different manner, but it lacks nothing in effectiveness. A single treatment shows the complexion greatly improved.

It is to be applied after the skin has been thoroly cleansed and then covered with a thin film of ordinary lubricating cream. Shake the bottle of lotion until the meal and oil are blended, and spread it evenly over the coat of cream. Allow it to dry and remain on the skin for about 20 minutes, after which it may be wiped off with a towel moistened in warm water.

Some women like to leave the lotion on overnight occasionally, but the short treatment provides a good pickup and leaves the skin with a pretty, live glow and a nice, clear look.

Used regularly two or three times a week, the lotion will do much to improve the texture and appearance of the complexion. It's ideal for the woman whose skin is beginning to age a little. LOUISE DOOLEY.

Spaghetti, macaroni, and noodles—how often, these days, we fall back on these cereal pastes to stretch our meat points farther!

We often make the mistake of overcooking these products. Overcooking seems to be hardest on spaghetti, producing an oversoft string without character.

It is well to follow cooking instructions which are printed on the package. Usually they specify that the macaroni, spaghetti, or noodles should be dropped into rapidly boiling, salted water, stirred occasionally to prevent sticking, and cooked only until tender. Drain thoroly, but do not rinse, these instructions are likely to say.

Since the cooking water usually contains minerals and salts, it can be saved for soup stock, or for the sauce that is to dress the cooked cereal paste.

Macaroni products of all kinds may replace each other in most recipes.

Spanish Macaroni Casserole.
[Serves six.]

2 medium onions, chopped fine
½ cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons oil or drippings
½ pound macaroni
¾ pound cheese, grated or cut fine
4 small fresh tomatoes
2 cups medium white sauce
Salt, pepper

Saute the onion, celery, and green pepper in the fat for a few minutes. Cook the macaroni in boiling salted water and drain. Mix with sauteed vegetables. Alternate layers of macaroni mixture, sliced tomatoes, cheese, and white sauce in greased baking dish. Top with margarined crumbs, if desired. Bake for half an hour at 350 degrees.

Meatless Sauce for Spaghetti.
[Using Dried Mushrooms.]

1 cup chopped onions
½ cup olive oil or salad oil
1 can tomato paste
½ cup chopped celery
2 cloves garlic, chopped fine
1 cup dried mushrooms
Salt, pepper, herbs if desired

Soak the mushrooms for half an hour in lukewarm water. Saute onions in olive oil, then add tomato paste, celery and garlic. Simmer 10 minutes longer. Chop mushrooms fine and add with 1 cup water in which they were soaked. Season with salt, pepper, and herbs, if desired. Simmer for 30 minutes, stirring frequently.

A good sauce for cooked noodles is made by adding a can of tomato soup to a cup of well seasoned white sauce, with a teaspoon or more of minced onion, and a cup of grated cheese.

Circular Doilies

Circular doilies crocheted in a pineapple design are quick and easy pastime work, for they require little concentration. One doily may be made in a couple of hours. Doilies worked up of ivory mercerized crochet cotton are extremely effective when placed against a highly polished table.

For instructions in crocheting the pineapple doily, No. 1086, send 15 CENTS in coin [wrap coin securely] to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York 1, N. Y.

'A Tree Grows in Brooklyn' So Human It Hurts

"A TREE GROWS IN BROOKLYN."

By Mae Tinée.

Don't forget your hankie when you go to see the film version of Betty Smith's best selling novel. The sniffles were audible in the screening room, and if it made the carping critics cry, I fear for what it will do to most audiences. The teeming tenements, the quarreling neighbors, the hurdy-gurdy, the dingy stairways, and, of course, the symbolic, tough little tree that sprouts bravely in such sections are all realistically drawn

Peggy Ann Garner's Francie will wring your heart. Her gaunt, pinched little face, her straight stringy hair, the hideous woolen tam and shapeless dresses she wears, her tear-flooded brown eyes, all demonstrate in realistic fashion much that is bruising to a sensitive child in a poor family.

If it had no other virtue, the film draws a sharp sketch of those valiant souls of whom such conditions take the greatest toll in broken hopes and dreams—the mothers, who fight ceaselessly against dirt and debt and despair, who must bear the children, feed and tend and inspire them, and frequently lose their own identities after years of grinding poverty. Dorothy McGuire's Katy is such a woman, and her fierce efforts to pull the family up by its bootstraps develop a hard core within her.

Joan Blondell's interpretation of Aunt Sissy, the irrepressible wife who named all of her various husbands Bill is easy going and warm hearted. James Dunn's Johnny Nolan is the personification of all the lovable but weak-willed charmers in the world, full of dreams, and completely unable to face reality. Ted Donaldson is Neely, the son of the family, whose healthily huge appetite helps him to survive almost any crisis. After such complete realism, Lloyd Nolan's McShane, the "good man" who brings about the happy ending and promise of a brighter future seems almost too good to be true.

The film follows the book closely, altho not all the story is included, and the author should be pleased with the poignancy achieved by the screen. The director demonstrated both skill and sensitivity, and has produced a picture that is so human it hurts.

Alpha Omicron Pi Midwest Groups to Hold Workshop

Approximately 30 delegates from six midwestern university chapters of Alpha Omicron Pi will gather on Friday in the Northwestern university chapter house in Evanston for a two day district workshop. Principal speakers will be Mrs. George Dean of Montgomery, Ala., national president, and Mrs. Robert C. Suhr of Evanston, national vice president. Miss Nancy Vance Moyer, national traveling secretary, will also attend.

Mrs. Robert F. Lindrooth of Chicago, director of the Great Lakes district, and Mrs. Martin Rosendahl of Evanston, who heads the midwestern district, will preside. In addition to Northwestern, the Universities of Minnesota, Illinois, and Nebraska, and Indiana and DePauw universities will be represented.

The conference will close Saturday night with a buffet supper, the only large social event on the calendar, with the Chicago North Shore Alumnae chapter as hostess. Arrangements for the supper are under supervision of Mrs. Carl A. Groth of Chicago, alumnae president, and members of her board.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 18.—Barbara Whiting, 13, daughter of Richard Whiting, who has written about 200 song hits, has signed a long term contract at 20th which totals up to $50,000 for the little lady. Not since Jane Withers have they had a funnier child. Her Tuffy Adams in "Junior Miss" will roll you in the aisles. . . . RKO has a grand story that Ethel Barrymore is crazy about. It's "Miss Hargraves," an English novel written a couple of years ago. . . . Robert Alda may do a sequel to George Gershwin and play George's father. He'll be that old by the time we get a look at him on the screen. . . . Remember John Archer, winner of Jesse Lasky's "Gateway to Hollywood" contest, which got him one job here, then a hunk of silence? Well, he's playing on Broadway in "One Man's Show," and Hollywood is offering $1,000 a week to get him back.

First Good Oscar Show.

What a shame Mark Sandrich couldn't have lived to see the one perfect Academy award show, which he had so much to do with. The Academy should never be allowed to give awards without Bob Hope presiding. For the first time in our history, Hollywood followed the public's verdict. If Bing Crosby hadn't gotten the award for the best performance, there would have been riots up and down the boulevard. Everybody is mighty happy that Ingrid Bergman won, and Ethel Barrymore too. Have you noticed that four ladies under contract to David Selznick have now been Oscared? Only one star got it in one of his pictures—Vivien Leigh for "Gone with the Wind"; Joan Fontaine for "Suspicion" made at R. K. O.; Jennifer Jones for "Song of Bernadette" made by 20th Century, and Ingrid Bergman for "Gaslight" produced by MGM. I was so happy that Darryl Zanuck got the Thalberg award. He deserved it.

Unfair to the Fair Sex.

Here's something to dwell on. The New York theater has two distinguished women producers—Margaret Webster and Antoinette Perry. Paramount has a distinguished woman—or did have—Phyllis Laughton. Mitch Leisen refused to make pictures without her. Paulette Goddard won't do one without Miss Laughton's help. Paramount admits she's wonderful. The only reason they won't make her a full fledged director is, so I'm told, they're afraid the men won't take orders from a lady. Since when, fellows, since when? . . . Too bad Martin Goldsmith sold "Detour" to P. F. C. for $3,500. A major studio is now offering $75,000.

Ain't It the Truth?

A bit of dialog from "Pardon My Past," Fred MacMurray's next. Said the colonel: "It's been my experience that dice are like horses—and women, bless their hearts! To get the best out of them, they need to be handled gently and kept warm." . . . Virginia Weidler plans an all-girl orchestra to tour hospitals this summer. Leonard Sues is making her arrangements and showing her how to conduct a band. . . . Leo Carr was defeated for sheriff in the last election in Cook county, Illinois. He's here taking over beer distribution for California. From sheriff to drummer! . . . Following the Edgar Bergen show at Williams field, Ariz., a bomber will be dedicated to Effie Klinker with her picture painted on its side. . . . John McLain, looking very ornamental in his navy blues, is back from Iwo with film shot during the battles there. I don't imagine we'll get to see the worst shots. As John says, "There's never been anything like it on land or sea." I can believe him. . . . Tony Romano tells about an athlete who was running a temperature. His doctor was trying to get him to bed. "What's my temperature?" he demanded. "103," the doctor replied. "What's the world's record?" inquired the patient.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Uniform-ity.

Before the war, we used to plan
On saving Monday nights for rest—
To take it easy, read a book—
Or dial a broadcast of the best!

The week-ends were so busy then—
A lengthy drive, or dancing date;
Why, every Sunday was the time
To start out early . . . get home late!

Small bandages for those who serve—
For those remembered in our prayers!

Slogans.

Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc., is conducting a slogan contest among its employes for a catchy phrase which best summarizes the air line's personalized service—something such as "Service with a Smile" or "Courtesy Pays" or "The Voice with a Smile."

The announcement of the contest carries a reminder that business in the past was built on courtesy and "our future depends upon it. Let others lean upon such trite answers as, 'Don't cha know, mister, there's a war on.'" Discourtesy, concludes the slogan announcement, is a germ with which we all can become infected if we are not careful.

Contests such as this one, within an organization, are good morale boosters. They help to crystalize the employe's feeling about his job and his relation to it. They foster articulate ideals.

Sometimes I think we should have a slogan for our white collar girls. Soon after Pearl Harbor a homely phrase of the southland came to this desk. It seemed to anticipate the patience and strenuous work to be exacted from us all: "Keep sweet and keep movin'!"

Do you know a better one? Our W. C. G. contest officially is open!

"Perhaps you didn't hit the bull's eye the first time; perhaps you overshot your mark and landed in a spot you didn't aim for. Mother's Acts Are Alienating Her Children

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"I just had to come over for a little while tonight, Aunt Ellen," sighed Cora, sinking into the nearest chair.

"What's wrong, dear?" asked her aunt.

"Perhaps I'm not always right," burst out the girl, "but it just seems impossible to win in our house. Mother is so unreasonable. She never seems to take anything I do or say in the right spirit.

"I know mother's had a difficult time since dad died, but she never lets us forget how hard she has had to work to bring us up, and so forth. We know it and we've all tried our best to make it up to her.

"David, Jack, and Peg all moved away from here—a safe distance, too—when they married, so mother wouldn't feel she had to take care of any children they might have and then complain about it to everybody. She now blames the 'in-laws' for taking her sons and daughter away from her, by the way.

"I go to school and work afterwards, and on Saturdays give mother as much money as I can, and then she doesn't understand when I want to go out and have a good time. Sometimes I think I'll just have to leave home to get away from the constant whining and nagging," she finished.

"See," she would say. "That's what I get! I've worked, and slaved, and raised those children and that's the way they act. I've sacrificed and sacrificed, and that's my reward. David, Jack, and Peg married and hardly ever visit me, and now Cora wants to be out most of the time, and she is so bored . . ." Then she would begin to weep.

She had so longed to say, "My dear, you are making a mistake. Cora is a sweet girl, generous, and good to you. You keep at her, telling her how much you've done for her, and how you've sacrificed yourself. How you could have married again and didn't, and no young person wants to stay around and hear all that. You're sorry for yourself all the time, and you're certainly not very cheerful. No young person likes that either. You're driving her away from you, and I'm beginning to think that you drove the other children away from you, too. You're a very foolish woman."

When you hear parents complain of ungrateful children, of sons and daughters who don't think about them and are selfish and care only about their own concerns now that they're married, et cetera, look around for the reason in the mother's actions and attitude. Or, if you're feeling like that and very sorry for yourself, try a little honest look within. Don't drive your grown-up children away from you by nagging reproaches and self-pity.

Juvenile Styles

These two patterns will please the youngest feminine member of the family because of their high fashion, and will gratify mothers because the styles are simple to sew and require a minimum of material. One pattern makes a suspender frock with appliques on the bodice matching the blouse. The other creates a rag doll dressed in a similar frock. Style No. 3718 is designed for sizes 6 to 14. Size 8 requires 1¾ yards of 35 or 39 inch material for jumper; 1 yard of 35 inch for blouse. Applique is included. Style No. 2507 is designed for one size. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing.

Order Clotilde patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing. The spring fashion book, on sale at Tribune Public Service offices, is 15 cents; 12 cents if ordered by mail with a pattern.

Newest Plastic Fashioned Into Gleaming Bags

BY REA SEEGER.

Here's good news for bag shoppers. The newest plastic patent leather in gleaming black has been fashioned into smart spring handbags. This is the incredible stuff that will not peel, crack, or break. It also will give record breaking service, in fact, can be used for years. It's soft, pliable, and shines even more than the regulation or old-fashioned patent leather. In wet weather or dry going, this plastic stuff stays in the original flexible state.

While the current collection includes street and town handbags of high price, the original cost is more than reasonable when the long service is considered. Present models are designed in smart, tho conservative, outline and shape, hence the bag is virtually dateless. Simulated tortoise shell frames and handles make the high fashion and very handsome contrast of golden brown with black. All-black affairs with concealed frames are plentiful, and one of the big surprise ideas of this spring season is that these plastic black patents are being worn with any navy blue footwear you are lucky enough still to own.

There are neat little bandbox bag models with short wrist carrying straps, deeper bandboxes with larger capacity, and envelopes which are appreciably thicker in bulk than last year's very flat tho capacious bags. Some are saddle stitched in white, some have buttoned flaps, and others are made in the still classic manner just like a huge flat envelope. Simulated drawstring bags made of the plastic patent look as swank as anything of luxury suede, heavy satin, or ribbed silk. If you want a smart handbag that will see you thru the next two or three years, see these plastics.

ANSWERS TO SATURDAY'S QUIZ.

Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠J752 ♥10754 ♦AK95 ♣6
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 spade	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three spades. If partner has a shaded third hand bid he will pass and you should not be in difficulties. If he has a sound hand and goes on you have all that he can expect from a passing partner. The error to avoid is the two diamond response, in view of your previous pass partner may elect not to proceed, which he is at perfect liberty to do. Make sure the hand is played in spades.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
♠74 ♥AQ8 ♦AQJ5 ♣AJ73
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	1 spade	Pass	Pass
Double	Pass	2 hearts	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. A raise to three hearts would be indiscreet. Remember that your partner did not ask to "get into the act." You brought him into it and he may have nothing but four or five hearts in which case a nine trick contract would be doomed to failure. Bear in mind that he was unable to act over the adverse one spade bid.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
♠76 ♥A ♦AQ62 ♣AQJ1063
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 spade	Pass
3 clubs	Pass	3 hearts	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three no trump. Perhaps this sounds peculiar, but there is a strong likelihood that this hand may be a misfit in which case 11 tricks may not be available. Unless partner acts again slam aspirations should be relegated to the background.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
♠K7 ♥KQ1076 ♦A93 ♣643
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 hearts	Pass
4 clubs	Pass	4 diamonds	Pass
5 hearts	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Seven hearts and without so much as batting an eyelash. [Unless, of course, partner's wisdom is a moot question.] His bidding has been the most colossal known to man. The king or spades is the deciding factor. Your previous bids would have been justified without it and partner must surely be allowing for the possibility of losing to that card.

Q. 5—Both sides vulnerable, opponent opens with one heart and you hold:
♠Q109764 ♥5 ♦KQ10963 ♣—
What do you bid now?

A.—Two diamonds. This is a bit unorthodox but it is made in the expectation that the bidding will have reached four hearts by the time it gets back to you, in which case you may try four spades. Whereas if you overcall with one spade, you would fear to try five diamonds, over the adverse four heart bid.

Q. 6—As North you hold:
♠83 ♥J10764 ♦K42 ♣K54
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	1 spade	Pass	Pass
Double	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. While you did not think enough of this holding to make a free bid on the first round, it has now become a strong hand in view of partner's double. If you bid only five hearts partner must reach the conclusion that you have no special strength and that you are just dutifully responding to the double. He cannot misunderstand your jump. If you had any more you would have taken action immediately after the spade bid. This is the mate to the hand in question No. 2.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
♠QJ4 ♥KQ1074 ♦8 ♣A942
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Pass	2 hearts	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four clubs. This hand has definite slam possibilities. Partner has shown a good hand by opening and raising to three. Your spade holding assumes great importance and the secondary control of diamonds is an encouraging factor. If partner has the king of clubs or a singleton prospects will be bright indeed. This hand is not suitable for a Blackwood bid because it is not a question of aces. Slam will depend on partner's club situation and a descriptive bid is in order.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
♠A62 ♥AJ4 ♦Q642 ♣K109
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	Pass	1 heart	Pass
1 no trump	Pass	2 clubs	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. When you opened this hand it was a minimum, but the fitting cards in partner's suits have increased its value. Partner can hardly construe your jump as showing a powerful hand. He must not lose sight of the fact that you were unwilling to raise from one to two hearts in the first instance.

CUBS' SPRING CAMP ROSTER INCREASES TO 18

NEW YORK GOES INTO HILLS FOR INTERCITY DRILL

31 to Compete for Chicago Trip.

BY BILL MURTHA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 18.—It's quite obvious that the New York Golden Gloves team is hiding in the weeds for Chicago's champions. For the first time in the 18 year history of these Intercity meetings the easterners are going to hie themselves away to a training camp far from the city's distractions to plot the downfall of the west in Chicago Stadium on April 4.

The eastern coaches selected Bear Mountain, a spot about 25 miles up the Hudson river, as the retreat most conducive to getting the young men in the proper frame of mind and body for the worst ambush the west has seen since Custer fell afoul Sitting Bull on the Little Big Horn.

They Mean Business.

The New Yorkers also have an extra week of grace between the eastern Tournament of Champions and the Intercity meeting this year and they plan to make the most of the opportunity. In previous years the New York squad started training immediately after the eastern title duels. Frequently, however, some of the boys went home for a few days and on several occasions reported only the morning of the day they were to leave for Chicago, thus restricting their training.

The six day interval this year has given the easterners time to assemble a complete squad for the opening training session Tuesday and to make necessary changes beforehand instead of improvising in the middle of training when alternates have been unable to accept invitations to join the squad.

The New York coaches aren't making loud claims this year but neither are they whistling past the graveyard as they seemed to do on occasions in the past.

Easterners Respect Quijano.

The Chicagoans have been scouted by Pete Mello and Teddy Martin, two of the three eastern coaches. They were impressed but by no means downcast. Martin and Mello agree that the west's best class is the middleweight and the top fighter the light heavyweight champion, Corp. Adolfo Quijano of California. They also claim, however, that the east's battlers are superior to Chicago's in the lighter divisions.

As far as Intercity experience goes the New Yorkers would seem to have an edge. Two of the New York champions, 175 pounder Roland La Starza and 112 pounder Francisco Colon Garcia, won alternate bouts in last year's meetings, while Chicago's Intercity veterans, Ray Spurlock and Luke Baylark, were whipped in New York.

23 Fight for Eight Places.

In addition to the eight New York champions 23 alternates have been invited to try out for the eight vacant berths on the Intercity squad. The complete roster, as given out by the New York coaches follows, with the champions listed first:

118 POUNDS—Adolfo Castro Calderon, O'Neil Thompson, Milton Baldinger.
135 POUNDS—Eddie Murphy, Leon Johnson, Elbert Highers, Angelo Laongo.
147 POUNDS—Laverne Roach, Mike Koballa, Wendell Wilson, Al Lind.
160 POUNDS—Howard Brodt, Howard Anspach, Al Wankewicz, Dominic Modaferri.
175 POUNDS—Roland La Starza, Jimmy White, Joe Rindone, Steve De Luca.
HEAVYWEIGHTS—Gus Schlee, Roscoe Stout, Leo Smith, Berk Horowitz.

The eight eastern communities which participated in the eastern Tournament of Champions were New York, Miami, Puerto Rico, Jacksonville, Charlotte, N. C., Washington, Newark, and Buffalo. All eight have representatives on the team.

Puerto Ricans Score Heavily.

The Puerto Ricans, who brought only five men into the tournament, took three championships in the final night's milling and the marines took two, both representing Washington.

Murphy and La Starza are the native New Yorkers and Buffalo grabbed the laurels in the heavyweight department.

Thom, Indiana Wrestling Coach, to Enter Business

Clevenger said tonight. Thom, a graduate of the University of Iowa, was head coach of the United States wrestling team in the 1936 Olympics. He wrestles professionally.

March Interlude.

Between the crystal brilliance which is winter
And variegated glories of the spring,
An interlude of drabness and of longing
For harbingers that promise soon to bring
Adonis back to lovely Venus,
The fragrance of white magnolia blossoms
The thrill that comes with gardening, well done.

Plebeianly, we'll make our houses shine.
Then, hand in hand with April's tears and laughter,

Spring Song.
[With Reservations.]

True, the same old robins sing;
True, the lilacs bloom once more
Beside the same old cottage door;
But there's a hint of sadness, a note of pain,
That should never belong to a spring refrain,
But hearts will be heavy and hearts will be sore
Till all of our boys are with us once more.

There's something missing from this spring;
You sense it in each familiar thing;
True, the same old violets shyly bloom,
By the same mossy stone in the forest's gloom,
But the shadow of winter remains in the heart
So long as our loved ones and we are apart;
When they return our glad souls will sing
And then, thank God, we shall know it is spring.

DECATUR HAILS ITS STATE PREP BASKET KINGS

Mayor Speaks—and Coach Sings Today.

BY DAVID CONDON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Decatur, Ill., March 18.—There were a few citizens around here last night and early this morning who heard all the noise and celebration and phoned the local newspapers to ask if the war was over. The rest of the population of this city of almost 60,000 knew that Decatur High had won the third state basketball tournament in the school's history.

The noise started about midnight, when a police escort and hundreds of fans traveled six miles out to greet the Decatur basketball team—the Big Reds who last night defeated Champaign High school, 62 to 54, before 7,325 howling fans in George Huff Memorial gymnasium on the University of Illinois campus.

Mayor's Proud of 'Em.

Early this morning, after the escort had guided the victorious team into the city, there was a rally in Central park. There 4,000 milled around while Mayor James Hedrick took the speakers' stand to welcome the team home. He said he had known all along the Reds would win, but admitted there may have been a moment of doubt Friday, when he saw Decatur tie the score against Galesburg at 66-66 with but a few seconds of the regulation time remaining, and then again come from behind, 72 to 71, in the closing seconds of the extra period.

The mayor relinquished the rostrum to State Sen. Lawrence Rotz, who as a baseball coach at Decatur 18 years ago was known as "Cocky" Rotz.

Girls Lead Cheers.

Rotz yielded the stand to the four comely girls who had led the Decatur cheering thru the tournament. They tried to get some organization into the lusty and spontaneous roars of the throng. Finally, the gals gave it up after Coach Gay Kintner, who last night became the second coach in the tourney's 38 year history to guide the same school to three state titles, received a thunderous ovation.

The celebration continued even after the Decatur squad—Doster, Riley, Bob Hoyt, Harold Leake, Ralph Rutherford, John Malerich, Bob Neuendorf, B111 Tomlinson, Krigbaum, Jim Arnold, Bob Stauber, and Bob Kurek—pushed its way thru the masses for an assault on Grider's cafe for steak and ice cream sodas.

"Yes, steaks and ice cream sodas," Coach Kintner told the management. "The sodas might sound silly but that's what the boys want."

The Noise Was Terrific.

The fact that the cafe management found it necessary to lock the entrance in order to serve the team didn't break up the demonstration. Car horns tooted and high school school students drove thru the streets until almost sunrise. Some, who had left the celebration early and retired, admitted they could hear the noise thruout the city long after they were in bed and trying to sleep.

"Our state champions" were still being talked about around here today, and cars decorated with bunting and bearing painted signs, "We won and beat Champaign," still drive around the street. High school students packed in jalopies continued the merrymaking well into the afternoon.

Coach to Sing Today.

There won't be any classes at Decatur High school tomorrow, that's a certainty, but the students will assemble at the school, anyhow. There's an assembly scheduled for shortly after 9 o'clock and the trophies will be awarded. Kintner is scheduled for a vocal rendition of "Rum and Coca Cola."

"It was like this," Gay said, smiling. "Before we went to Champaign, I promised the students I would sing the song at assembly if we took the state title. They won't let me wiggle out this time. When we won in 1936, I promised to sing 'The Music Goes 'Round and 'Round.' Well, I got out of that but not so this time."

Tonight there are rumors around Decatur that Kintner is going to be encored, and he's polishing up on "The Music Goes 'Round and 'Round" for that followup.

LEO'S FIVE WINS SOUTH JUNIOR CROWN, 31 TO 25

Leo High school's basketball Lions roared back into the class of junior champions last night by defeating Weber's Red Horde, 31 to 25, for the south section title of the Catholic league. The playoff game was held in the Loyola university gymnasium.

The loss removed the 1944 Catholic league and all-city champions from the prep race, while Leo's victory sent it into the league finals against St. Philip. This game will be played Friday night at Loyola.

Weber and Leo tied for south section honors during the regular season. The Red Horde won the first meeting, 29 to 24, in overtime. Leo took the second one, 35 to 27, which, up to last night, was Weber's only defeat of the season.

Leo's 26th Triumph.

The victory was Leo's 26th in 29 games, while Weber closed its year with 23 triumphs and two losses.

The Leo seniors will play St. Philip for the senior title, Wednesday night in De La Salle gymnasium. Winners of this game, and the junior contest Friday between the same schools, will meet Marshall's juniors and Senn's seniors for the all-city championship in Chicago Stadium on April 7.

Leo went into the lead in the opening minute on Bob Kozlowski's push shot. Wally Pokoj tied it up for Weber, after which Dick Kloser of Leo made his first basket. Kloser altogether made 13 points for high scoring honors. After Mayer's free throw made it 4 to 3 in Leo's favor, the Lions stepped out to a lead which they never relinquished. Kozlowski sandwiched a basket between two free throws for an 8 to 3 advantage before Pokoj made a foul shot for Weber.

Weber Rally Falls Short.

Kloser made the score 10 to 3, after which Dick Zaleski scored Weber's only other basket of the period. Ted Moskal's field goal for Leo completed the first quarter scoring with Leo in front, 12 to 6.

The Lions went into a 16 to 7 lead in the second period, and built it up to 20 to 9 after Joe Zrenda hit an easy pushup shot. The half ended with Leo out in front, 24 to 13.

Weber put on its only rally in the third quarter, pulling up to 20 points before Leo was able to hit again. The quarter ended, 27 to 20.

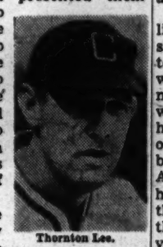
Rationed White Sox Talent Puffs Thru Dull Camp Game

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Terre Haute, Ind., March 18.—The White Sox presented themselves as two teams today, the purpose being to hold one of those so-called camp games but the division spread out the talent so thin that even Boss Jim Dykes was surprised, if not shocked.



Thornton Lee.

Here and there was a fellow whose name really has been in a big league box score at one time or another—kids like Bing Miller and Mule Haas for instance—but in the main the two layouts were on the amateur side, some of the latter being the property of Dykes for the time being and the others just local hangers on in search for exercise.

Merely Muscle Stretching.

Under the circumstances nobody would volunteer to record the activity for baseball history so it was passed off as just so much muscle stretching garnished by honest to goodness sweating, the weather being that choice.

Mr. Dykes, against whom the bulk of the regular pitchers seem to be engaged in a holdout conspiracy, had one of his staff members from last season on hand and he proudly displayed him for several hundred onlookers. The gentleman was Lee [Buck] Ross who as early as the first couple innings encountered a series of mishaps, one a two bagger with a pair of men on bases by the venerable Haas.

Oris Hockett in Center.

However, Ross' lack of deception wasn't alarming for Ross. He was merely throwing, his training program not being at the point where any tricks were warranted.

Even by putting together the two lineups of today it wouldn't be possible for the south side constituents to get even a faint idea as to what will be provided for their amusement this summer. Oris Hockett was in center for one team and he'll be there on opening day. The only other participant who might be considered a candidate for an April 17 job was Vince Castino behind the plate. Johnny Dickshot in the outfield and Tony Cuccinello at third are cases that depend on development after a lot of the fellows now missing get into camp.

Five Still Holding Out.

Dykes scanned the register this morning and again this evening, hopeful of seeing something pleasant, but nothing happened. On second look he discovered Thornton Lee, the lefty, had arrived from Phoenix, to double the size of the big league pitching staff now present. There were no other arrivals. Neither was there any word from the five men holding out—Bill Dietrich, Johnny Humphries, Orval Grove, Joe Haynes, and Mike Tresh. Along with holding out, Tresh, Dietrich, and Humphries claim they have made no definite plans for 1945 but this vagueness shouldn't be taken too seriously. Altogether 15 men are missing for one reason or another. This doesn't include Hal Trosky who declares he has definitely retired.

Dykes' squad, however remained at 19 with Lee's appearance today when Charles Weitzel, one of the numerous amateurs picked up to fill the roster, was sent to his Philadelphia home. The lad has a hernia and Dykes advised him to give the surgeons a job before resuming in baseball.

State Bait Casting Champion Wins Tribune Tournament

BY BEN MARKLAND.

Earl Garnsey, Illinois state bait casting champion, added The Tribune tournament title to his record last night in the final event of the nine day casting meet held in the Coliseum in conjunction with the International Sportsmen's show.

Garnsey, 2616 W. 60th st., is a member of the Gary Anglers' club. His first experience as a platform caster came in The Tribune tournament in 1937, when he won the fishermen's event. Since that time he has won numerous state and sectional titles, was runner-up in 1940 and 1941 in the national tournament, and last fall won both the ⅝ and ⅜ ounce state titles in the meet held at the Chicago Fly Casting club. He also won The Tribune club tournaments in 1940 and 1942.

Henry Lesko, 17 year old senior at Hyde Park school, was the chief threat to Garnsey's title chase in last night's final. He tied Garnsey at 98 in the original event, but lost his composure in the cast-off, falling to 88, while his more experienced opponent tallied 96.

Norman Taxman, 14, of the Lincoln Park Casting club, provided the upset of the tournament by dethroning Frank Steel as bass bug champion. Steel, holder of the world record of 100 in the national dry fly, never had been defeated in The Tribune bass bug contest since the event was first scheduled in 1939. Last night Steel and Taxman one of his casting pupils, tied with scores of 98 in the bass bug, but the youngster defeated his teacher, 98 to 97, in the cast-off. Carol Steel, Frank's 17 year old daughter, was third with 97.

George Applegren Jr., 1626 Highland av., a junior at Lane Tech High school, won the dry fly event to beat Steel, world champion, and 12 other competitors. Applegren, national skish fly champion, has been competing in Tribune tournaments since the age of 12. He won the junior bait casting title in last year's show, and scored 98 to monopolize last night's dry fly contest. His nearest competitors were Howard Chatt, also a former national champion, who scored 95, and Norman Taxman, who tallied 93.

The Sportsmen's show ended last night.

HACK OBSERVES ARRIVAL WITH TWO BASE HIT

9 Pitchers Remain on Missing List.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

French Lick, Ind., March 18.—Stan Hack, long time pet of Cub fans and a possessor of followings in the seven National league cities which he visits, bashed a two base hit this afternoon less than 5 minutes after he had donned his spikes for the first time this year.

The veteran third baseman got to the practice field here after the warming up didoes had been supplanted and the drilling had turned into batting practice. Seeing a gap in the batting order, Stan grabbed a bat, bunted Mack Stewart's first pitch, then lined a sizzling drive which hit just inside the right foul line.

Eighteen Players on Field.

By getting started on this date the former Cub captain beat his 1944 joining up by three months. Last year he did not leave California until June 8, got caught in a flood en route and spent 10 days in getting in shape. He played 98 games and batted .282, a drop of seven points as compared to 1943. His average for his 11 full years as a Cub, prior to last season, is .303. His best mark was .320 in the pennant year of 1938.

A total of 18 signed ball players reported on the field for today's workout, but the summer weather made even some of the rotund or arthritic guests of the hotel feel frisky to the point of asking for uniforms. Counting Manager Charley Grimm, his three professors, signed players, hitchhikers and others there were 33 draped in Cub regalia. Those who might have been injured were segregated in a safety zone but there still were enough on the field to heighten the illusion that Grimm has a full squad here.

Not Doing Right by Charley.

The optical illusion did not deceive Grimm to the point of not noticing there still is a dearth of pitching talent here, only six of the listed 15 having put in appearances. Some are claiming to be working out independently but such arrangements usually are looked upon as stalling ruses. After all, the manager probably is entitled to supervise the training of the men on whose condition he must stake his reputation.

The six pitchers on hand are welcoming the extra work imposed on them by the absentee shirkers, however, especially under the prevailing summery conditions.

Tuesday the second intraclub game will be played and an effort will be made to assign players to their regular positions. This can be done pretty well, tho Len Merullo, Charley Brewster, and Bill Schuster, shortstops, are absent. With Hack and Johnny Ostrowski available for third base duty, Roy Hughes can play short, where he served part of last season. Catcher Dewey Williams probably will play short on one of the teams.

Neckties for Everyone.

Tomorrow will be the anniversary of the Cubs' arrival here last year, an event which was attended by snow. As today's drill got under way the temperature on the hotel verandas, in the shade, was 76 degrees. Tom Taggart, overlord of French Lick, fresh back from a month in southern California, was among those elated over weather conditions here. He was in such a merry mood that he presented Manager Grimm, Secretary Bob Lewis, and the scriveners with elegant hand painted neckties.

SENIOR TITLE IN C.Y.O. MEET WON BY ANNUNCIATION

St. Andrew, St. Sabina Also Victorious.

Fleet footed Jimmy Hoffman led Annunciation to the senior division championship in the 14th annual Catholic Youth organization basketball finals yesterday in St. Sabina Community center. Annunciation defeated St. Philomena, 48 to 36.

Only 5 feet 7 inches tall, Hoffman outspeeded and outmaneuvered his towering opponents to score 27 points on nine baskets and nine free throws.

St. Andrew Wins.

St. Andrew defeated St. Brendan for the junior division title, 31 to 25. Tall Gus Heybrock and driving Jack Lyman led the St. Andrew five.

Ed Hogan and Bob Kelly, scoring seven and six points respectively, sparked St. Sabina to a 28 to 18 victory over St. Andrew for the prep division championship. The St. Sabina five, taking advantage of their superior height, piled up an early lead which they never lost. Elmer Gustafson of St. Andrew led the scorers with eight points.

Will Play B. B. Y. O. Champions.

In the fourth game, St. Mel Grammar school defeated Our Lady of Sorrows Grammar school, 18 to 15, to win the Bishop Shell trophy, emblematic of the archdiocesan grammar school championship.

The C. Y. O. All-Stars and the junior division champions will meet the champions of the B'nai B'rith Youth organization in Lane Tech gymnasium on March 27.

Byron Nelson, M'Spaden Cut Snead's Lead

Charlotte, N. C., March 18 (AP).—Byron Nelson and Jug McSpaden closed in on Sam Snead today but the ex-sailor from Virginia held a two stroke margin at the end of the third round of the $10,000 Charlotte Open tournament.

Snead, seeking his fourth open tournament title in a row, batted out a 69 for a total of 202, 14 under par, at the three-quarter mark of the 72 hole meet. McSpaden gained one stroke by firing a 68 for a 204 total and Nelson pulled even with Jug by posting a sharp 66, the best round of the day.

Snead stroked in four straight birdies from No. 14 thru 17, the stretch over which he had trouble yesterday, to trim three strokes from par. He had 36—33 against par 36—36. He bogeyed hill 455, the cursed No. 9, for the third straight day.

McSpaden picked up his stroke with a 32 on the homecoming route. He needed 36 on the out nine even with an eagle three on the second hole where he dropped a 40 yard chip.

HAWKS WIN FIRST DETROIT GAME IN FIVE YEARS, 5-3

Detroit, Mich., March 18 (AP).—The Chicago Blackhawks, scoring two goals in the last 10 minutes, defeated the Detroit Red Wings, 5 to 3, before 8,537 spectators tonight for their first victory in a regular season game in Detroit in five years.

It was the season's final and gave the Hawks three victories in 10 meetings with the second place Red Wings. Not since March 15, 1940, had Chicago bested Detroit in a regular season game here, altho the Hawks had turned the trick in playoff contests.

Bill Mosienko scored two goals, his 27th and 28th of the season, and assisted on tallies by Clint Smith and Pete Horeck, to lead the Hawks to victory. Smith assisted on both of Mosienko's goals.

Mosienko's first goal at 13:04 of the first period was matched by Joe Carveth's tally nearly four minutes later. Again Mosienko put the Hawks in front at 2:12 of the second period and Smith made it a two goal lead at 8:51.

Swedes Beat Centers, 4-2, in 2 Overtimes

After two and a half hours of playing time yesterday the Swedish-Americans defeated the Hakoah Centers, 4 to 2, in Sparta stadium, and won the right to play the Vikings in the Illinois Cup finals on a date yet to be decided. The game was a play-off of one postponed last fall. In a National Amateur cup game Necaxa won over the Norwegians, 6 to 2.

The battle between the Swedes and Hakoah required two overtime periods and was undecided until the final minute with opposing goal keepers thwarting thrust after thrust. Frank Trimmell scored his second goal of the day and the winning tally early in the second overtime, but the outcome wasn't definite until Harold Anderson slipped one in for the Swedes with a minute to play.

Neither team scored in the first period but Manfred Lehman broke the deadlock after 10 minutes of the second half when he gave Hakoah its first and last lead.

The period was half over when Kid Johnson tied the score. Trimmell scored his first in the overtime period but the Swedes lost their margin when Julius Brant scored on a penalty shot. The initial overtime ended with the score tied at 2 all. Then ensued Trimmell's second goal and Anderson's shot.

A flurry of fistic activity broke out in the first overtime period with Referee Fred Listow and Enir Pearson of the Swedes mixing briefly. In accepted style the referee emerged victorious and Pearson left the game under orders.

In other games the Vikings beat the Schwabens, 3 to 2; Sparta trimmed the Workers, 4 to 3; the Kickers shut out the Rangers, 1 to 0, and the Schwabens Juniors and Viking Juniors tied, 2 to 2.

HERO AMPUTEE ALMOST CAUSES BASEBALL RIFT

Washington, D. C., March 18 (AP).—A rookie with one leg—a war hero—has captured the interest of the New York Yankees and the Washington Senators but the army has an option on him.

He is Lt. Bert Shepard, 25 year old fighter pilot who was flown today to Atlantic City, N. J., for a workout with the Yankees. He had been practicing with the Senators.

The trip was engineered by the army but that fact did not leak out until later and meanwhile there were dark mutterings in the Senators' camp.

Army Explains Everything.

On the trip from here the army plane had picked up Yankee Chief Larry MacPhail in Baltimore and took him along. Word that MacPhail was flitting about with Shepard in tow created misgivings in the mind of Clark Griffith, Senators' owner. He had advertised Shepard as an attraction at an intrasquad game here today.

Before the misunderstanding got out of hand, however, the army explained everything. Seems Shepard had been with a group of convalescents in the office of Undersecretary of War Patterson and said he would like to work out with the Yankees. So he did.

At the drill more than 100 soldiers, many with an arm or leg off, watched Shepard move around on the diamond almost with the agility of a man with two sound legs. That was part of the army's plan in arranging the trip.

He's a Free Agent.

At Atlantic City MacPhail said Shepard would appear again in the Yankee camp and he might take him on as a batting practice pitcher unless the war department wanted him to tour hospitals and camps as a symbol of a wounded man's comeback. Griffith has a similar idea, with the thought of using Shepard as a player if he makes the grade.

Dr. Griffith, Bucknell Athletic Head, Dies at 68

Shoe to Blame if Peck's Bad Boy of Macks

Frederick, Md., March 18 (AP).—Because of a shoe, the Philadelphia Athletics have a hustling outfielder.

He is Hal Peck. Connie Mack thought enough of him to give up $20,000 and four players to bring him from the Milwaukee Brewers. Peck wasn't worth that kind of money nor a four for one player trade several years ago. He accidentally shot off two toes of his left foot in the fall of 1942.

The injury affected his running prowess. He couldn't get needed power in his left foot. He didn't play ball until August of the following year.

Specialists tried braces. They didn't solve the problem. Peck told his troubles to an admirer, Walter McQuire of Milwaukee.

"Let me figure out something," said McQuire. "I've had some experience along that line." Two weeks later he brought Peck a shoe. "Try this," he said.

CHAPMAN REPORTS.

Bear Mountain, N. Y., March 18 (AP).—Coach Chuck Dressen, in the absence of Manager Leo Durocher, today sent the Brooklyn Dodgers thru a three hour drill on the outdoor field. Most of the pitchers worked during a long batting practice session, including Ben Chapman, latest Dodger regular to report. He said he had engaged in preliminary training before he left his Birmingham, Ala., home.

Chapple's battery mate was Danny Long, catcher, who accompanied him to camp. Long, of the Trenton club, with which the Dodgers have a working agreement, is here for inspection. Durocher, at the Cherry Point, N. C., marine base today as a member of a group of entertainers, is expected back tomorrow.

PIRATES PLAY GAME.

Muncie, Ind., March 18 (AP).—Warm weather greeted the Pirates for the third straight day as they held their first practice game. The Yanigans led by Acting Manager Spud Davis, beat the Regulars, 4 to 3. Art Cucurullo and Rookie Len Gilmore pitched for the winners; Preacher Roe and Xavier Rescigno for the Regulars.

A man power shortage in the pitching department limits tomorrow's program to a routine workout. Davis continued to direct the Pirates in the absence of Manager Frankie Frisch who was reported ill with acute arthritis.

BOUDREAU HAS ANSWER.

Lafayette, Ind., March 18 (AP).—Manager Lou Boudreau, as resourceful as a war time housewife, will combat a shortage of infielders by letting the same quartet play for both sides in the tribe's first intrasquad game tomorrow at Purdue university.

Ed Carnett, Al Cihocki, Boudreau, and Ken Keltner will take a pregame turn in the batting cage, then stay in the field for the game which will last as many innings as conditioning permits.

GIANTS REGULARS WIN.

Lakewood, N. J., March 18 (AP).—The New York Giants had their first competitive action today. Team No. 1 won, 2 to 1, over the second team in six innings. It was an errorless affair.

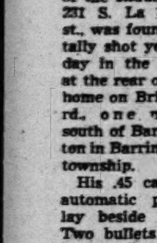
INDUSTRIALIST SHOT FATALLY, PISTOL AT SIDE

Found Dying in Barn Near Barrington.

Leslie M. Hansen, 55, president of the Industrial Silica corporation, 231 S. La Salle st., was found fatally shot yesterday in the barn at the rear of his home on Brinker rd., one mile south of Barrington in Barrington township.



Leslie M. Hansen.

His .45 caliber automatic pistol lay beside him. Two bullets had pierced his heart. The wounds were powder burned.

Wife Finds Him Dying.

He was found by his wife, Mrs. Mae Underwood Hansen, who was attracted to the barn by the barking of their cocker spaniel, Cricket, upon her return to the house after a short absence. She called Dr. B. P. Graber, who summoned an ambulance. Hansen died in the ambulance en route to Sherman hospital at Elgin.

Mrs. Hansen told police that when she left the house about 10 a. m. yesterday to drive to Barrington for the Sunday papers, her husband appeared in normal spirits. He recently had been despondent, however, over ill health, she said.

Parents of Three Girls.

There are three daughters in the Hansen family, Sally, a freshman at Elgin academy, who was away from home visiting friends; Leslie, a freshman at Vassar, and Nancy, a graduate of Northwestern university, who is visiting in New York.

Hansen was a member of the board of trustees of Elgin academy and in 1941 was president of the National Industrial Sand association. He served as an officer in the tank corps with the American expeditionary force in World War I.

O. F. Burnett, a neighbor of the Hansens, told Lt. John Burns of the county highway police that he heard several shots, apparently in series of three, from the direction of the Hansen home yesterday morning.

ROBBERS BEAT 3; 1 VICTIM DIES OF HEART ATTACK

Police yesterday were seeking a gang of robbers who earlier are believed to have slugged and robbed three men on the north side, one of whom died of a heart attack induced by the beating.

Lawrence Babziak.

The dead man was Lawrence Babziak, 62, of 2316 Lister av., a sausage maker, whose body was found lying against the rear of a store in a courtyard at 1252 N. Damen av. A postmortem examination disclosed that death was due to a heart attack and not directly to the slugging.

The second victim, John Mikula, 64, of 1503 Erie st., was found unconscious in a passage way at 2032 Division st. at the end of the same alley in which Babziak's body was found. The pockets of both had been slit, Lt. Thomas Sheridan of the North av. police said.

Peter Skazeos, 56, of 1119 N. Paulina st., a waiter, reported to police that several men dragged him into an alley at 1635 Division st., slugged him, and took $31.

Raymond was taken to St. Charles hospital.

Joseph Cooney Jr., 11, of 2229 N. Kilpatrick av., was fatally injured by an automobile yesterday as he was crossing in front of 2548 N. Cicero av., on his way to a theater. His father, employed in the city collector's office, and his mother saw the accident. The car was driven by Theodore Mundt, 60, of 2414 N. Lawndale av.

EGYPT TEMPLES THREATENED BY NILE FLOODS

(By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.)

CAIRO, Egypt, March 18.—Some of Egypt's finest ancient temples will collapse thru the action of Nile floods unless many thousands of dollars are spent soon in saving them, according to Dr. Etienne Drioton, Egypt's director general of antiquities.

The government has just voted $62,000 to save the world famous temple of Seti I. and other buildings at Abydos, but Dr. Drioton says that large sums still are needed to save the temple of Philae and Nubian remains.

Irrigation developments which brought wealth to the country are taking their toll in damage to ancient structures, Dr. Drioton revealed. He named two primary causes—the great lake created by the Asswan dam and the creation of year round irrigation in southern Egypt. Seepage from the irrigation canals has undermined the foundations of the 3,000 year old temple of Seti I.

EDITOR, ONCE FOUND INSANE AT NIGHT BUT SANE BY DAY, IS DEAD

Philadelphia, Pa., March 18 (AP).—James E. Macusker, 74, former owner and editor of the Journal of Commerce who was once decreed by a court to be sane by day and insane by night, died unexpectedly yesterday.

In 1923, Common Pleas Court Judge J. Willis Martin ruled that between 8 a. m. and 8 p. m., Macusker was a normal individual. But from 8 p. m. to 8 a. m., Judge Martin said in his decree, Macusker "suffered delusions in which he imagined himself the victim of a political plot to ruin him and infidelity on the part of his wife."

Macusker conducted his business successfully during the day from 1923 to 1926 but under a court order, he spent each night in the Friends' asylum. After four years of this routine, Macusker was permitted to spend his nights as he wished but a guardian continued to handle his estate. In 1931 a jury declared him sane. His estate has dwindled from $50,000 to $500.

NEW SANTA FE BRIDGE SPEEDS HEAVY TRAFFIC

Colorado Crossing Double Tracked.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Opening of the new Santa Fe railway bridge across the Colorado river at Topock, Ariz., a few miles east of Needles, Cal., will be an important aid in speeding heavy war traffic for the Pacific theater, Santa Fe officials said yesterday. The bridge was opened officially on March 8, altho a few trains had crossed it earlier on special schedules.

The improvement will save passenger trains approximately 10 minutes and freight trains 20 minutes—substantial amounts for the current heavy traffic. The double tracked bridge is of massive construction, with rails resting on rock ballast, permitting trains to cross it at virtually top speed.

Curves Reduced, Eliminated.

In building the bridge the road also eliminated or reduced several curves on the approaches, making for faster operation in the area. Actually, the time saving probably will be substantially more than estimated because the old bridge was single tracked and frequently a bottle neck during peak traffic periods.

Approaching the bridge from the east the Santa Fe's tracks descend from an elevation of 3,336 feet to 482 feet in the 61½ miles from Kingman to the desert city of Needles and then climb back to 2,584 feet elevation in a 30 mile stretch to Goff. The bridge eases some of the operating problems created in moving heavy trains up and down the steep grades.

Has Deepest Pneumatic Pier.

Construction of the bridge was a major engineering operation because of the treacherous nature of the Colorado river. It has the deepest pneumatic pier ever constructed in the United States, a difficult job undertaken to put the bridge on solid rock foundation. Located in the deepest part of the river, the bottom of the pier is 123 feet below water level.

Special permission was required from Arizona authorities to permit men to work under 52 pounds of air pressure in the caisson for the pier. The men descended by elevator in an air lock thru successive stages of air pressure until the 52 pound level was reached. Working shifts were limited to 30 minutes because of the severe pressure.

Span Is Third Since 1883.

In building the bridge—1,506 feet 9 inches long—17,878 cubic yards of concrete went into the substructure and 6,506 tons of steel and 106,808 rivets were used in the superstructure.

The new span is the third the Santa Fe has used to cross the Colorado since 1883. The river always has been a problem for the bridge builders because of its swift current, shifting bed, and sudden floods. The first bridge was a wooden affair washed out and rebuilt three times. The second, just discarded, was begun in 1888 and was the largest cantilever bridge in the country when completed in 1890. It has been offered to the states of Arizona and California as a new crossing for automobile traffic on highway 66. Work on the new bridge started Nov. 16, 1942.

West. Union's Business Has Vast Growth

New York, March 18 (AP).—Western Union Telegraph company handled 233 million domestic messages in 1944, compared with 190 million transmitted by Western Union and Postal Telegraph combined in 1939, A. N. Williams, president, reported in the company's annual statement today.

A. N. Williams.

Among research and engineering activites for military use, the company listed a packaged semi-automatic telegraph set and cryptographic apparatus for preserving secrecy of messages during transmission.

Install Carrier System.

Other improvements included a carrier telegraph system installed between New York and Washington, capable of providing 36 high speed two way telegraph circuits on two physical wires, permitting the transmission of as many as 288 messages simultaneously.

Western Union has made recommendations to the federal communications commission for allocation of bands in the ultra and super-high frequency range, suitable for a nation-wide radio beam telegraph network.

Asks Experimental Permit.

The report said the company has applied to the FCC for a construction permit for an experimental circuit between New York and Philadelphia.

"Western Union has concluded a license agreement with the Radio Corporation of America which assures its telegraph position in this promising field," the report said.

ELECT 3 I. C. VICE PRESIDENTS, TWO MORE ELEVATED

Election of three vice presidents and two other promotions of executives of the Illinois Central railroad were announced yesterday by Wayne A. Johnston, president.

Charles F. Duggan, assistant general manager, was elected vice president in charge of operations; Vernon W. Foster, general counsel, was named vice president and general counsel, and Charles H. Mottier, chief engineer, was elected vice president and chief engineer.

Stephen F. Lynch, general superintendent of transportation, was promoted to general manager and was succeeded by Clyde F. Fitzpatrick, superintendent of the Iowa division at Waterloo. All except Fitzpatrick are residents of Chicago.

CIVILIAN WORKER FORCE LOWER IN 1944 THAN IN '43

New York, March 18 (AP).—Average United States civilian employment decreased more than a million in 1944 from the peak of 53,097,000 in 1943, but total employment—including those in military service and government jobs—reached a record high average of 63,072,000, the National Industrial Conference board said today.

Included among declines in major industrial job groups were: Manufacturing, 759,000; agriculture, 234,000; forestry and fishing, 15,000; mineral extraction, 60,000; construction, 412,000, and public utilities, 54,000.

Transportation engaged 2,934,000, largest number on record and an increase of almost 500,000.

Peak government civilian employment of 6,100,000 was reached in December, 1944, an increase of 49 per cent over December, 1939.

CONVICTS' ROLE IN WAR TOLD BY WARDEN RAGEN

Convicts at Stateville have shown themselves to be as patriotic as men outside prison, Joseph E. Ragen, warden of the penitentiary, asserted yesterday in a talk on the Distinguished Guest hour over W-G-N.

Ragen said that 3,000 men have voluntarily donated more than 5,000 pints of blood to the Red Cross mobile blood bank, and that they have bought thousands of dollars of war bonds from their meager earnings. More than 600 men volunteered to be "guinea pigs" to test the toxicity of certain drugs which the military services developed to combat malaria, despite warnings that the effects might prove fatal.

The army has established two repair shops at Stateville, he stated, where carloads of used clothing is renovated and repaired. Considerable quantities of clothing and other supplies for the army and navy are being manufactured at the prison. The war production board has awarded the prison the national service pennant for outstanding contribution to the winning of the war, he said.

J.], and Peterson [D., Ga.], to the subcommittee, which will hold hearings tomorrow thru Friday.

ADDRESS L D 327, TRIBUNE

MANDEL PROFIT DIPS, THO SALES INCREASE 9.1%

Higher Wage Costs Trim Earnings.

Sales of Mandel Brothers, Inc., increased 9.1 per cent in the fiscal year ended Jan. 31 over the total for the preceding year, but net earnings declined because of increased wages and other expenses, Edwin F. Mandel, president, and Col. Leon Mandel, vice president and general manager, said yesterday in their annual report. Sales were $24,687,862.

Net income was reported at $400,541, equal to $1.37 a share before a $100,000 provision for possible inventory decline and other contingencies, compared with $489,992, or $1.68 a share before an equal provision in the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, 1944. After the reserves, net earnings were equivalent to $1.03 and $1.34 a share in the respective years.

Federal Regulations Costly.

One of the factors reducing net income was increasing cost of compliance with various government regulations, the report said. Difficulties in obtaining merchandise and maintaining adequate personnel continued as the major problems. Provision for federal taxes on income amounted to $2.05 a share.

American Smelting and Refining company net earnings in 1944 declined to $8,627,072, or $2.34 a share, from 1943 profit of $11,749,977, or $3.76 a share, Francis H. Brownell, chairman, and Roger W. Straus, president, told stockholders. They said increased operating costs contributed to the decline.

Blaw-Knox Reports Gains.

Blaw-Knox company had net income of $2,169,417, or $1.63 a share, against $1,936,798, or $1.45 a share, in 1943. Sales climbed to a record $125,454,861 from the previous peak of $111,449,224 in 1943.

Much of the company's research, products, and process development effort will be utilized in its post-war activities and markets, said William P. Witherow, president.

ELECTRONS AT WORK—4.

An outstanding example of speculative enthusiasm for a new industry carried to costly extremes is the market action of Radio Corporation of America common stock in the '20s. This was the decade following the introduction of radio broadcasting. During the great bull market in stocks in the later years, R. C. A. became the bellwether of the radio group.

From 32 in 1926, the old class A common rose to 549 in March, 1929. Later in that year, the present common shares, issued for the old on a five for one basis, sold at 114¾, equal to 573¾ for the original stock. In the general market crash which followed, the radio group was especially hard hit, R. C. A. fell to 2¼ in 1932, or little more than 2 per cent of the 1929 peak.

In the war time resurgence of speculation in radio shares R. C. A. with 13,881,016 common shares outstanding, has been less conspicuous than a number of other companies of much smaller capitalizations. Its highest price of the war period is the 1945 peak of 12¾. Desp

'ISLE' BATTLE TO BE TOLD ON W-G-N TONIGHT

Hawthorne War Role Will Be Described.

"Chicago Area War Workers Storm Pacific Island" might be the title of the seventh America Unlimited program, which will be heard over W-G-N at 9 o'clock tonight.

The broadcast will show how the men and women who manufacture communications equipment at the Western Electric company's Hawthorne works in Cicero stand shoulder to shoulder with their sons, husbands, and brothers in the service when the job to be done is to reduce an enemy stronghold with a minimum expediture of American lives.

Unintelligible to Enemy.

The battle for Island X begins in military headquarters in Washington, D. C., when the chief picks up his phone and talks with his subordinates on the other side of the world. Skilled Western Electric fingers put together the intricate equipment he uses. Western Electric know-how is partly responsible for the speech inverter, which makes the chief's commands unintelligible to an enemy who should pick them up but perfectly clear to the American listening post, which has the equipment to unscramble them.

The next phase of the battle begins when communications equipment on American planes and ships starts relaying news of enemy strength back and forth. Hostile ships are spotted and destroyed, friendly bombers are summoned from a distant air field to pulverize enemy installations on X.

The softening process over—and no one knows how many thousands of American lives already saved by the smooth functioning of communications equipment—the actual assault on the island begins.

Troops Set Up Transmitter.

The American vanguard storms ashore—and immediately sets up a radio transmitter to direct those who are following. As the battle proper is joined, word flashes back and forth of enemy concentrations here, of enemy weakness there. Headquarters puts all these reports together and thru its own communications system maneuvers the forces on the island in such a way that when the final victory is won the cost in American casualties is found to be relatively small.

Headsets, microphones, teletypewriters, switchboards, vacuum tubes, gun directors, transmitters—these are a few of the things which Hawthorne workers have toiled to make and which play a battle part as important in their way as the guns and ammunition with which other American war workers are backing up their men.

The program will end with the admonition, "If you have a war job, stick to it every day! If you haven't, get one!"

Prepared by La Frandre.

The broadcast has been prepared and will be produced by Jack La Frandre, formerly a Bell Telephone laboratories engineer. Robert Trendler, who will conduct, has also composed the music. Bruce Foote, Earle Wilkie, Richard Baker, and the W-G-N chorus and orchestra make up the musical forces.

Collaborating in the production of America Unlimited, which is intended to stress the need for more war workers if victory is to be achieved with a minimum human cost, are W-G-N, THE TRIBUNE, the army, navy, other government war agencies, and the following Chicago area high priority war plants: the Buda company, Hallicrafters company, Republic Steel corporation, Pressed Steel Car company, Inc., Ingersoll Steel and Disc division of Borg-Warner corporation, Aluminum Company of America, Electro-Motive division of General Motors, and Western Electric company.

LEGAL STAFF SAVES CITY SIX MILLIONS IN '44

A saving of more than six million dollars for the city and protection from future drains on the city treasury running into many millions are among the services claimed for the city law department in a 143 page annual report filed for the consideration of the council by Corporation Counsel Hodes.

During 1944 the city legal experts disposed of 1,390,457 quasi-criminal cases and 7,609 civil cases, the report disclosed. Members of the department examined 613,726 police reports and conducted 13,431 legal investigations and 3,012 investigations of suspicious fires.

They participated in 7,053 hearings before administrative bodies, returned 2,354 formal opinions, and examined 17,097 legal documents.

By protecting the city's revenue producing ordinances the law department was able to increase the city's funds by $11,819,000 and by means of appropriate legal action to recover $6,729,418 and to reduce claims against the city by $90,270,931, the report said.

Personal injury claims against the city of $4,931,469 were reduced to $307,321 actually awarded. In six suits for alleged damages caused by subway construction, city attorneys were successful in cutting the total judgments sought from $344,596 to $131,411.
